Alverno High School

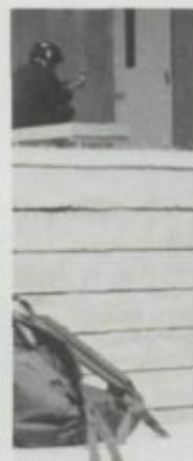

1983 Troubadour

Addressing the origin of Alverno's name, Dr. Elizabeth Broome opens "Homeroom on the Terrace". Students were fascinated by the history of our patron, St. Francis.

There I was. Observing a collage of blue, grey and white. They were seated on the ground. Attentive. Entranced. Facing the crowd — an unidentifiable figure. Educated. Refined. What was it about this crowd? Each person so like the other. Yet so different. There was something going on.

I advanced slowly. It became more clear. Dressed alike — uniforms. Common purpose — attention at an assembly. But there was something different about this crowd. I moved closer. Suddenly, I knew. Each face full of expression. No two the same. Unique. Diverse. Individual. This was no ordinary place. I needed time. I turned to leave. There she was. What did she know? I could see it in her eyes. A quick wink. A casual smile. "Here's Looking at you, kid". ☺☺

Intrigued by the Freshman Induction are Mrs. Mary McCullough, Mrs. Denise Yagel, Mr. Paul Hedgeman and Nancy Sumner. Students and teachers alike enjoyed assemblies and a break in the schedule. Liliana Troya was no exception.

"Here's Looking At You, Kid"

Spirited Linda Villanueva and Wendy Wolfe attempt to show the rest of the school that they are number one!

While relaxing on a Sunday morning over the Mother-Daughter Breakfast, Carmen Ramos and Julie Scofield discuss their weekend. Julie's mom tries to be inconspicuous as she listens to the "latest".

"I think you'd better give them what they want," says Sheli Parent as Katie Schimoler and Judith Romejko register.

It's a beautiful day for a liturgy out-doors, as Katya Grace and Julie Sanchez attend the Opening Mass.

Individual We Are

Pondering their futures, Lisa Kyle and Chris Reichert prepare to march into the cafeteria full of screaming students prepared to massacre them.

Even though they have but a ten minute break, Mr. Stephen Bailey and Mr. Bruce Friedman find time to make up excuses as to why they did not dress up for 50's day. Although many teachers dressed up for the day, there were some fuddy-duddies.

"I just don't get it!" murmurs Diane Erb as she and Dawn Gravely observe some keen dance combinations on 50's day.

"Tell me this is just a bad dream," says Kendra Frederich to Barbi Gomez and Susanna Barba before the Frosh Induction.

Busy as usual, Assistant Principal Mrs. Mary McCullough sneaks a quick phone call during 50's day. Mrs. McCullough always took part in student activities such as theme days.

Campus Ministry Commissioners, Ann-Marie Parent and Lori Mayer discuss the objectives of their commission at the Inauguration Ceremony. Sarah Van Wickle was next and tried to urge members of the Student Body to join the Communications Commission.

Humphrey Bogart would agree that no one girl at Alverno is like another. Each is in her own right.

Since students are denied the opportunity to express themselves through the clothes they wear, they must do so in other ways. Somehow, each must give some part of herself to the school. Those with leadership skills become involved in Student Council, while members of the Campus Ministry serve the community. The athletes participate in sports activities, while those with high academic ability belong to organizations like CSF and NHS. In addition, clubs are formed for various personal interests. Every girl is provided an opportunity to express her individuality. Here's looking at each one of you! 1980

"Personally, I really do prefer the subjunctive, see me later," Mrs. Lana Craig responded to Janet Voss's question. Teachers spent the first day helping students organize themselves for hectic days to follow.

Individuals are part of a whole. The whole is the sum and substance of the unique contributions of each individual. At Alverno, the girls carry their individual identity into the school where organizations are built. These organizations form common denominators and function as a foundation in the building of each separate class. The class, in turn, acts as a reflection of the individual, while at the same time, the individual is a representation of that class. Year after year, one class follows the next, and never are any two alike.

Finally these classes come together to form the school, making it unique and different from any other school. He's Looking at all of us! ☺☺

United We Stand

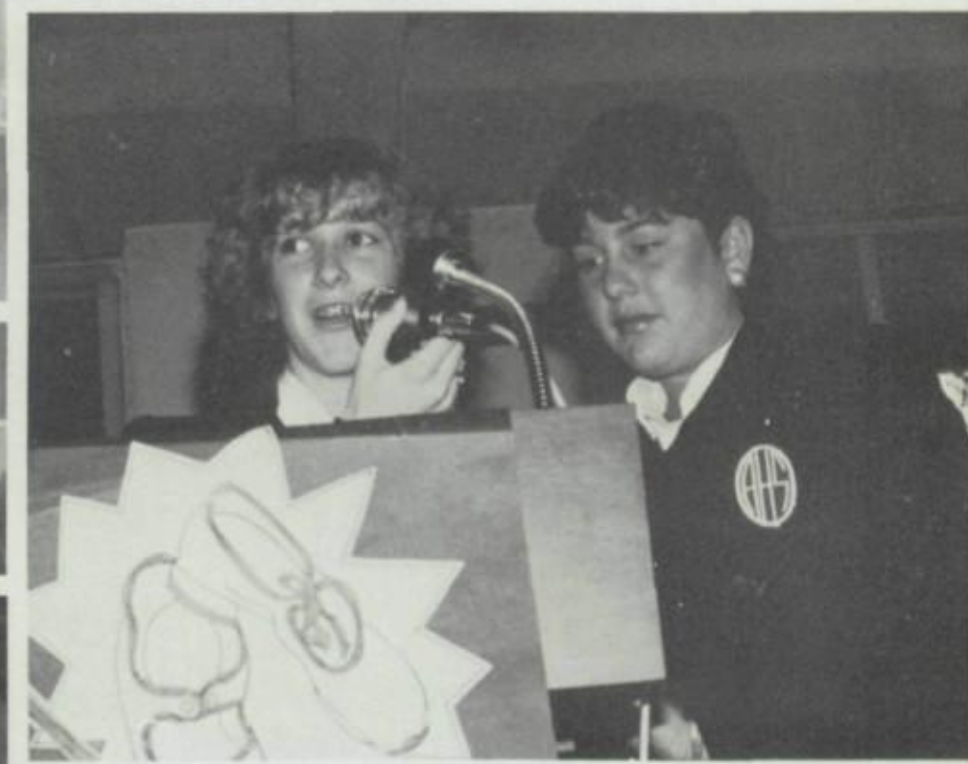

Enthusiastically teaching one of his classes is Mr. Christopher Murphy. Mr. Murphy was noted for his ability to lecture.

At the first Alverno dance Julie Scofield takes a minute out to get to know an intriguing guy from La Salle.

"I Jackie Shea . . ." 1983-84 Student Body President anxiously recites her oath of office to Dr. Elizabeth Broome.

"I wonder what Maggie Dolan is going to ask me?" sighed Mary Antoci. Freshmen prayed during their Induction that they would not get called to answer questions.

Individual Importance

While singing at the Opening Mass, Colleen Wilson gives a cheery smile to her friends. Each mass gave the students the opportunity to share a little sunshine.

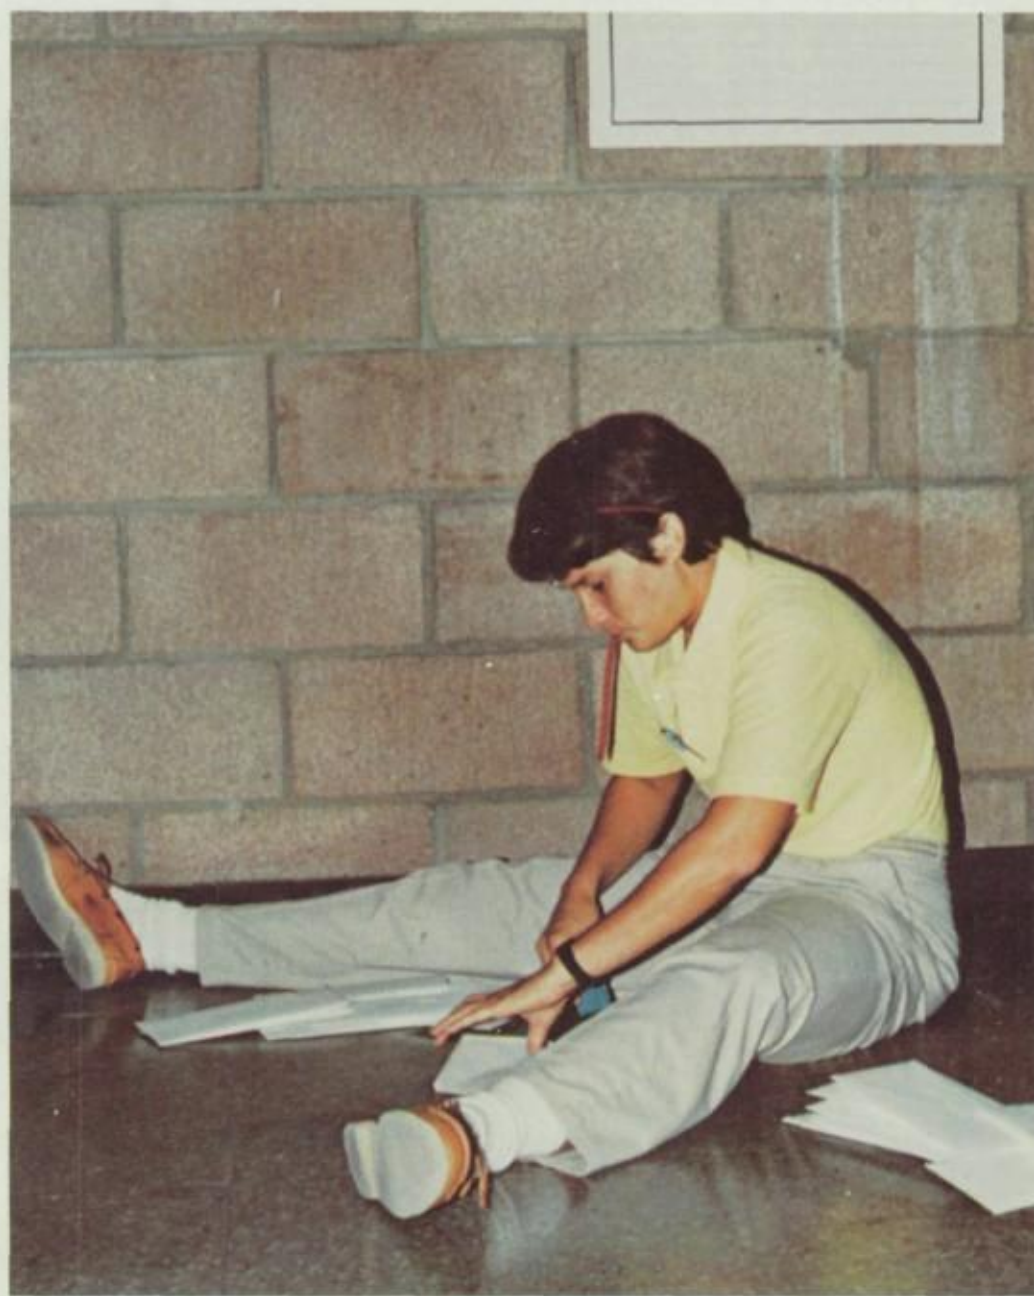

Discussing the latest "poop-scoop" are Mrs. Mary McCullough, Denise Tinker, Liz Oberreiter and Diane Erb. They were only a few of the Student Council members that got into the 50's Day spirit.

Intently staring at — what are you staring at Tammy? Tammy Millitelo was Commissioner of the New Student Commission.

Observing the Olympics Games at the BBQ are Mary Wilbur and Ms. Carla Tomaso. This was a new activity this year and seemed to be a great success.

After hours in the yearbook room, advisor Jean Bidwell mechanically stuffs envelopes. As you can see Red Licorice was a necessity during these all night vigils.

Showing off her 50's day spirit, Mrs. Denise Yagel wears rolled up jeans & an untucked oxford. Teachers enjoyed the change of pace during theme days as much as the students did.

Taking a minute to gather their thoughts are Sarah Van Wickle and Veronica Zambrano. Orientation Days were busy and full of confusion.

Humphrey Bogart had a hunch that Alverno was something to take notice of. His suspicion-confirmed. Individuals subsisting as one indivisible entity, no one girl like another. Different talents, qualities, and personalities amongst the Alverno campus. Each girl combined together to form what came to be a complete unit, a class.

Our spotlight shines on the individuality of every member, which is more often than not overlooked. Attention is called to the accomplishments and gifts that each girl here has to offer.

2:40 — leave Alverno's campus, reassured that individuality makes up the spirit, the classes, and the school. So "Here's Looking at you Alverno." 98

Here's A Look At Student Life

Enthusiastically cheering at the New Student BBQ are Sheli Parent, Kathy Keller, Sarah Alcorn, Denise Tinker and Alexia Prokop. Student Body officers wore hats that day to show that they were Student Council members.

Dear Diary,

Phew! What a day. Janie spilled her bowl of oatmeal on my sweater at breakfast, so I had to walk around all day smelling like a Quaker Oats factory. I just barely made it to school on time, and escaped a detention slip by seconds.

As the day continued it got progressively worse. A pop quiz in English. Urging students to attend sports activities is volleyball team member, Tami Taylor. Awards were given to the most enthusiastic supporters.

Dressed in their "play clothes" are Mr. Stephen Bailey, Mrs. Lana Craig, Mr. John Pederson and Mr. & Mrs. Richard Schuler, trying to decide what to do on their day off.

lish was not what I needed. And when am I going to find time to write a science paper when I have a religion test to study for?! Maybe I'll be able to stop by the library after work and pick up a book or two. I wonder how late they're open tonight?

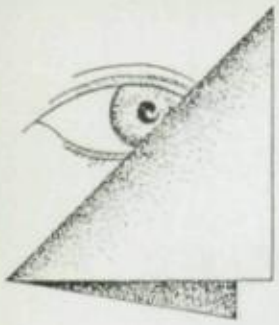

Oh my gosh! I almost forgot. I've got to call Frannie and ask her if she needs help for the party Saturday night. That's going to be great! Billy is going to be there and I'm going to wear my new dress. Maybe Mom can run by the store and make the last payment on it so I'll have it by then. As soon as I cash my check I'll pay her back.

I guess I'd better get started on homework . . . or maybe I'll go ahead and call Frannie. After all, a STUDENT'S LIFE isn't all work!! ☺☺

Until Tomorrow . . .

Trying their best to sell softdrinks are ASB pres. Jackie Shea and her guest. Drinks were sold at dances for refreshment and to help raise money.

Create

On September 7, 1983 Alverno held the first 1983-4 school mass. Blessed by blue skies and held on the lower lawns, the mass got underway.

Flowers were brought by the students and faculty to decorate the altar. Father Larry, of San Gabriel Mission Church presided over the mass and Blessed the student body with holy water. The ceremony symbolized the start of something new and clean. At the end, the Student Body went in peace and complimented the Campus Ministry Commission on a very well planned mass. ☪

Proudly attending their first Alverno Mass are some of the newest members of the faculty, Mr. Brian Riley, Mr. Paul Linn, Mr. Bruce Friedman, and Mrs. Lorraine Talner. The mass was held on September 7, on the lower lawns.

Receiving the host from Father Larry is Senior Denise Tinker. For many seniors this was a special moment because it represented the beginning of the end.

"Create in Me a New Heart." The celebrating pastor was Father Larry from San Gabriel Mission Church.

Earnestly singing at the opening mass are Juniors Susie Stephen and Stella Nieto. Many students found that by bringing music into the masses, unity was achieved.

"Now this is what I call a celebration!" Mrs. Nancy Hamilton, Mrs. Denise Yagel and Mrs. Virginia Winchester are all smiles as they attend the first mass at Alverno.

One of the petitions read at the first mass was done by Sr. Barbara Mullen. Many of the petitions read were concerned with world peace and hunger.

Enthusiastically singing the alma mater is Senior Chris Hunt. This was the first time Seniors were allowed to raise four fingers in symbolism of their seniority.

The Student Council enthusiastically applaud ASB President, Jackie Shea. On this day Student Council provided motivation and conversation amongst the guests.

During the BBQ Sister Barbara Mullen and Mrs. Lana Craig smile at its success. Good food and fun were only two benefits which arose from such gatherings.

Relieved to be free from the structure of a normal school day, teachers Mr. Christopher Murphy and Ms. Judy Wilber chat.

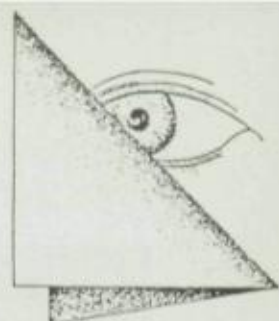

Anxiously awaiting their turn in the food line, parents and their children had a chance to get acquainted. This opportunity was greatly appreciated by all.

While some parents and their children participated in the games, others were content to watch. The games were organized by Sarah Alcorn.

A nice quiet picnic equipped with friends and games was the perfect way for Mrs. Denise Nagel and her husband Craig to spend a Sunday afternoon. Faculty members at the BBQ all seemed to enjoy their day of rest and relaxation.

Food For Thought

Thanks to the parents of Alverno, the first "Welcome New Student BBQ," held on Sept. 11, was a success.

The main goal of this event was to welcome the new students and their parents into the Alverno family.

Hamburgers, fruit salad, baked beans, and delicious cookies were served. "Olympic Games" were provided by the Student Council. ☺☺

Before being helped to their servings, Michelle Flores and Lisa Kyle thought they'd better get a good look at the chow to see if it passed "inspection." Hamburgers, fruit salad, and cookies were served.

Lights, Camera, Action

September 21, marked the second annual formal inauguration of the ASB. A pledge for service to the school was recited by the incoming members.

Following a definition of each commission, the presidents of each class discussed their individual class goals. Concluding the inauguration, each moderator presented their officers with a pin which represented their status as ASB officers.

After the inauguration, the Student Council presented the theme for the 1983-4 school year. Tracey Allen and Denise Tinker revealed the theme, "Trip the Light Fantastic," which in turn satisfied curiosity. The students patience was rewarded by getting to see some of their favorite male teachers dancing before them, with the student council members as partners. Topping it off was the appearance of Ms. Geri Fuchigami and Mr. Jon Pederson, who danced their way into the spotlight where they "Tripped the Light Fantastic"! ☺☺

Curiosity filled the minds as props for the opening day's skit were brought in.

Senior class officers Theresa Barcelos, Maggie Dolan, Diane Erb, and Stephanie Nakagawa proudly accept their pins from their moderator Sr. Barbara Mullen. Sr. Barbara was a great help to them.

As an important part of each formal assembly Dr. Elizabeth Broome addresses and welcomes the student body and faculty. This year Dr. Broome appeared at almost all assemblies and charmed her audience.

Excited to be chosen to represent the 1983-4 school years theme, Ms. Geri Fuchigami and Mr. Jon Pederson dance their way into everyone's heart.

Assist. Principal Mrs. Mary McCullough clears her throat and prepares for her speech. 1983-4 was her first yr. at Alverno. Mrs. McCullough worked miracles for the school.

What?! I don't believe it — Liz Oberreiter in front of the camera?? As photographer and is Editor-in-Chief of the yearbook, Liz's job also included representing the staff.

It's A Mistake

For the first time, Freshmen Induction took place in the cafeteria. On October 5, echoes of "Freshmen in the Pond", could be heard coming from the cafeteria.

Waiting outside in a single file line, were the petrified freshmen. Wearing homemade paper hats, the freshmen entered and introduced themselves. The sophomore class welcomed the freshmen with their version of the Adam's family theme song. The proceedings got underway with a warm welcome from Mrs. Mary McCullough.

The questions were asked by the senior class and ASB officers. Faced with such questions as: How many ants are in each locker?, the freshmen came up with answers as: "I dunno". One by one the called upon freshmen were taken down to the pond, although none were thrown in.

Later that evening the freshmen were welcomed in a formal inauguration with their parents and friends at their side. ☺☺

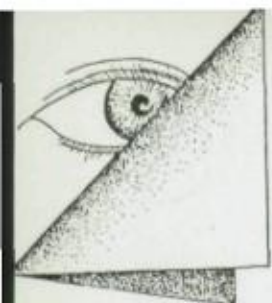

Singing the alma mater for the first time are Jeamilette Leagare and Nichole Mendoza. The student body teased the freshmen on their singing ability.

Showing three signs of obedience to Seniors is Freshman Linda Morales. Many of the students complimented Linda on her courage.

Panic stricken Julie Brown answers Theresa Barcelos' question by attempting to sing the alma mater. Many freshmen found that induction was a lifelong memory.

Walking For The Weekend

On October 14, held the 4th annual walk. This year, a goal of 20,000 dollars was set for the student body and faculty members.

The morning started for some at 6:00 in the morning. The Senators and Student Council members arrived in the wee hours of the morning for what some called "a balloon blowing up blast." After successfully blowing up 500 balloons, they were distributed amongst the classes. At 8:05 the student body arrived ready and rarin to go.

Escorted by Liz Oberreiter and her reliable diesel, the walk began at approximately 9:00. After an average of 2½ hours and only two checkpoints, the students arrived back at Alverno hungry as ever.

The Student Council supplied submarine sandwiches and other goodies for lunch. After lunch, Distortion DJ's provided entertainment and dancing on the terrace. Even though our goal was not reached, the walk was a great success and a worthwhile event. ☺☺

What is it Stephanie? You want to go back to sleep? One of the dedicated student council members that showed up at 6:00 to blow up balloons was Senior Class Vice-President Stephanie Nakagawa. The balloons were seen bobbing along the course.

Being a senator isn't an easy job as Becky Flores and Maria Hernandez demonstrate. Donuts were provided for those who decided to show up and help out.

Wearing the new Alverno T-shirt on the walk are Mrs. Denise Yagel and Mrs. Pat MacDonald. This year almost all the teachers got involved and participated in the walk.

Still smiling, while on the 10k walk are Seniors Lisa Pearson, Christine Wilbur, Carolyn Wilbur, Candace Milligan, Julie Scofield, and Cathy Crews. Alverno's T-shirt took on a new look this year, keeping in step with the latest fashion trends.

"What no more water!" says Dahina Nino while surrounded by Becky Swanson and Mary Reveles. Slices of oranges and cups of water were provided at the two checkpoints.

Here's Liz Oberreiter, her diesel, and the student body beginning the walk. For those who couldn't finish, Liz's last chance limo flew into 5th, maybe 3rd, how about 2nd, and came to the rescue.

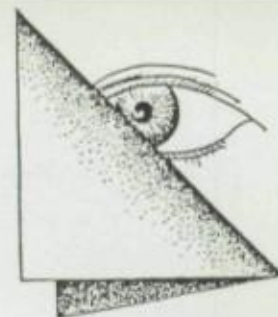

Proudly accepting her junior ring is Tamra Auzenne. The rings were passed out by Dr. Elizabeth Broome and Mrs. Denise Yagel. President Monique Pijanowski commented "Enthusiasm and unity was evident that evening."

Doing their best at singing the closing song is half of the junior class. The song "Mahogany" was voted upon to be sung at the ceremony.

Sophisticated Ladies

On October 25, the juniors made it official by receiving their class rings. The ceremony was held at St. Rita's Church and a reception followed in the church hall.

The ceremony consisted of speeches by Kelly Reily, Jody McWhirter, Class President Monique Pijanowski, and Principal Dr. Elizabeth Broome.

The planning and hard work of the class officers and moderator Mrs. Lana Craig paid off, as the ceremony proceeded with no difficulties. Dr.

Elizabeth Broome and Mrs. Denise Yagel took on the responsibility of passing out the rings to the juniors.

This year the rings took on a new look. The Alverno "A" was substituted for the class symbol. Many people commented for and against this move. At the reception, conversation, glances, and turning of each others rings were the highlights.

Junior Susie Stephen stated, "I love my class ring and will cherish it." ☺☺

Quietly sitting and waiting to receive their rings are Francie Ragains and Andre Lofy. The excitement at the ceremony was one that could be seen in every girls eyes.

Enthusiastically returning to their pews, with their rings are Colleen Wilson and Nancy Sumner. The girls rehearsed a few times so that all would go well.

"Say cheese!" The girls got a chance to show off their rings at the reception at St. Rita's hall.

Terms of Endearment which was nominated for six Golden Globe nominations starred Debra Winger, Shirley MacLaine, and Jack Nicholson, promises to be a winner.

The legacy of 1983 has come and gone a year that will not be forgotten. We have survived 1983 and are preparing for 1984 and all the George Orwell jokes to come. ☺☺

Could that be Ms. Jean Bidwell behind that strange looking nose? This year Ms. Bidwell came to the rescue when duty called.

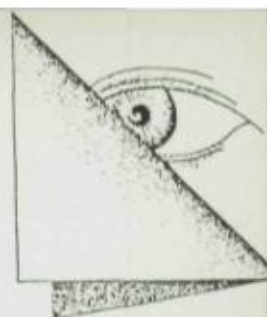

Revealing her true personality is Senior Laura Gomez. Laura was one of the students that dedicated her time working in the haunted house the evening of the dance.

Dressed in their costumes and enjoying themselves thoroughly are Senior Anne Marie Parent and guest. This year there was an incentive to come in costume; 50¢ off admission.

At work selling soft drinks is Freshman Susan Hannum. Susan could always be seen helping at the dances whenever needed.

Boooo!

On October 28, Alverno's Halloween celebration got underway with homeroom on the terrace. This time was not only for announcements but a time to look at all the creativity that went into some costumes.

At break the activities commission held a pumpkin carving contest and the senior class sponsored a pumpkin seed guessing game. The winner of the carving contest won a pumpkin filled with candy while the winner that guessed the amount of seeds received a ten dollar gift certificate from Big Ben's music store.

Later that evening Alverno held its annual halloween dance. For the first time the haunted house was sponsored by both Alverno and LaSalle.

As in the past the haunted house was a great success. Filled with witches, goblins, and dead bodies the haunted house managed to put fear in the hearts of the beholders.

The dance not only provided entertainment but included a talent competition. Thus not only did we see creative costumes but creative acts. All and all halloween got off to a great start, with a little help from Alverno. ☺☺

Dressed as an m&m is Senior Melinda Gambito. The student body was allowed to come to school in costume and show off their creativity as Melinda did.

Watching over the food and drink table is Denise Tinker and friends. Cookies and brownies were provided free of charge by the student council.

There is no academic pressure here, as Senior Annette Spataro and date demonstrate. The dancing continued until 11 O'clock and then the cleaning crew took over.

Dressed in their western attire and ready to take their picture are Senior Antoinette Ramirez and date. Photographs were taken at the dance during the first hour.

In their matching shirts and dancing to the beat are Junior Mary Ragains and date. Many people commented on how good the band was and how much fun they had at the Sadie Hawkins.

While the band is taking a break, Senior Cathy Carvajal grabs a soft drink. This was time for the girls to talk and find out more about their dates.

Showing off her unique style of dancing is Senior Tami Taylor. While on the dance floor the girls had the opportunity to show their creativity.

Yeeee-Haw

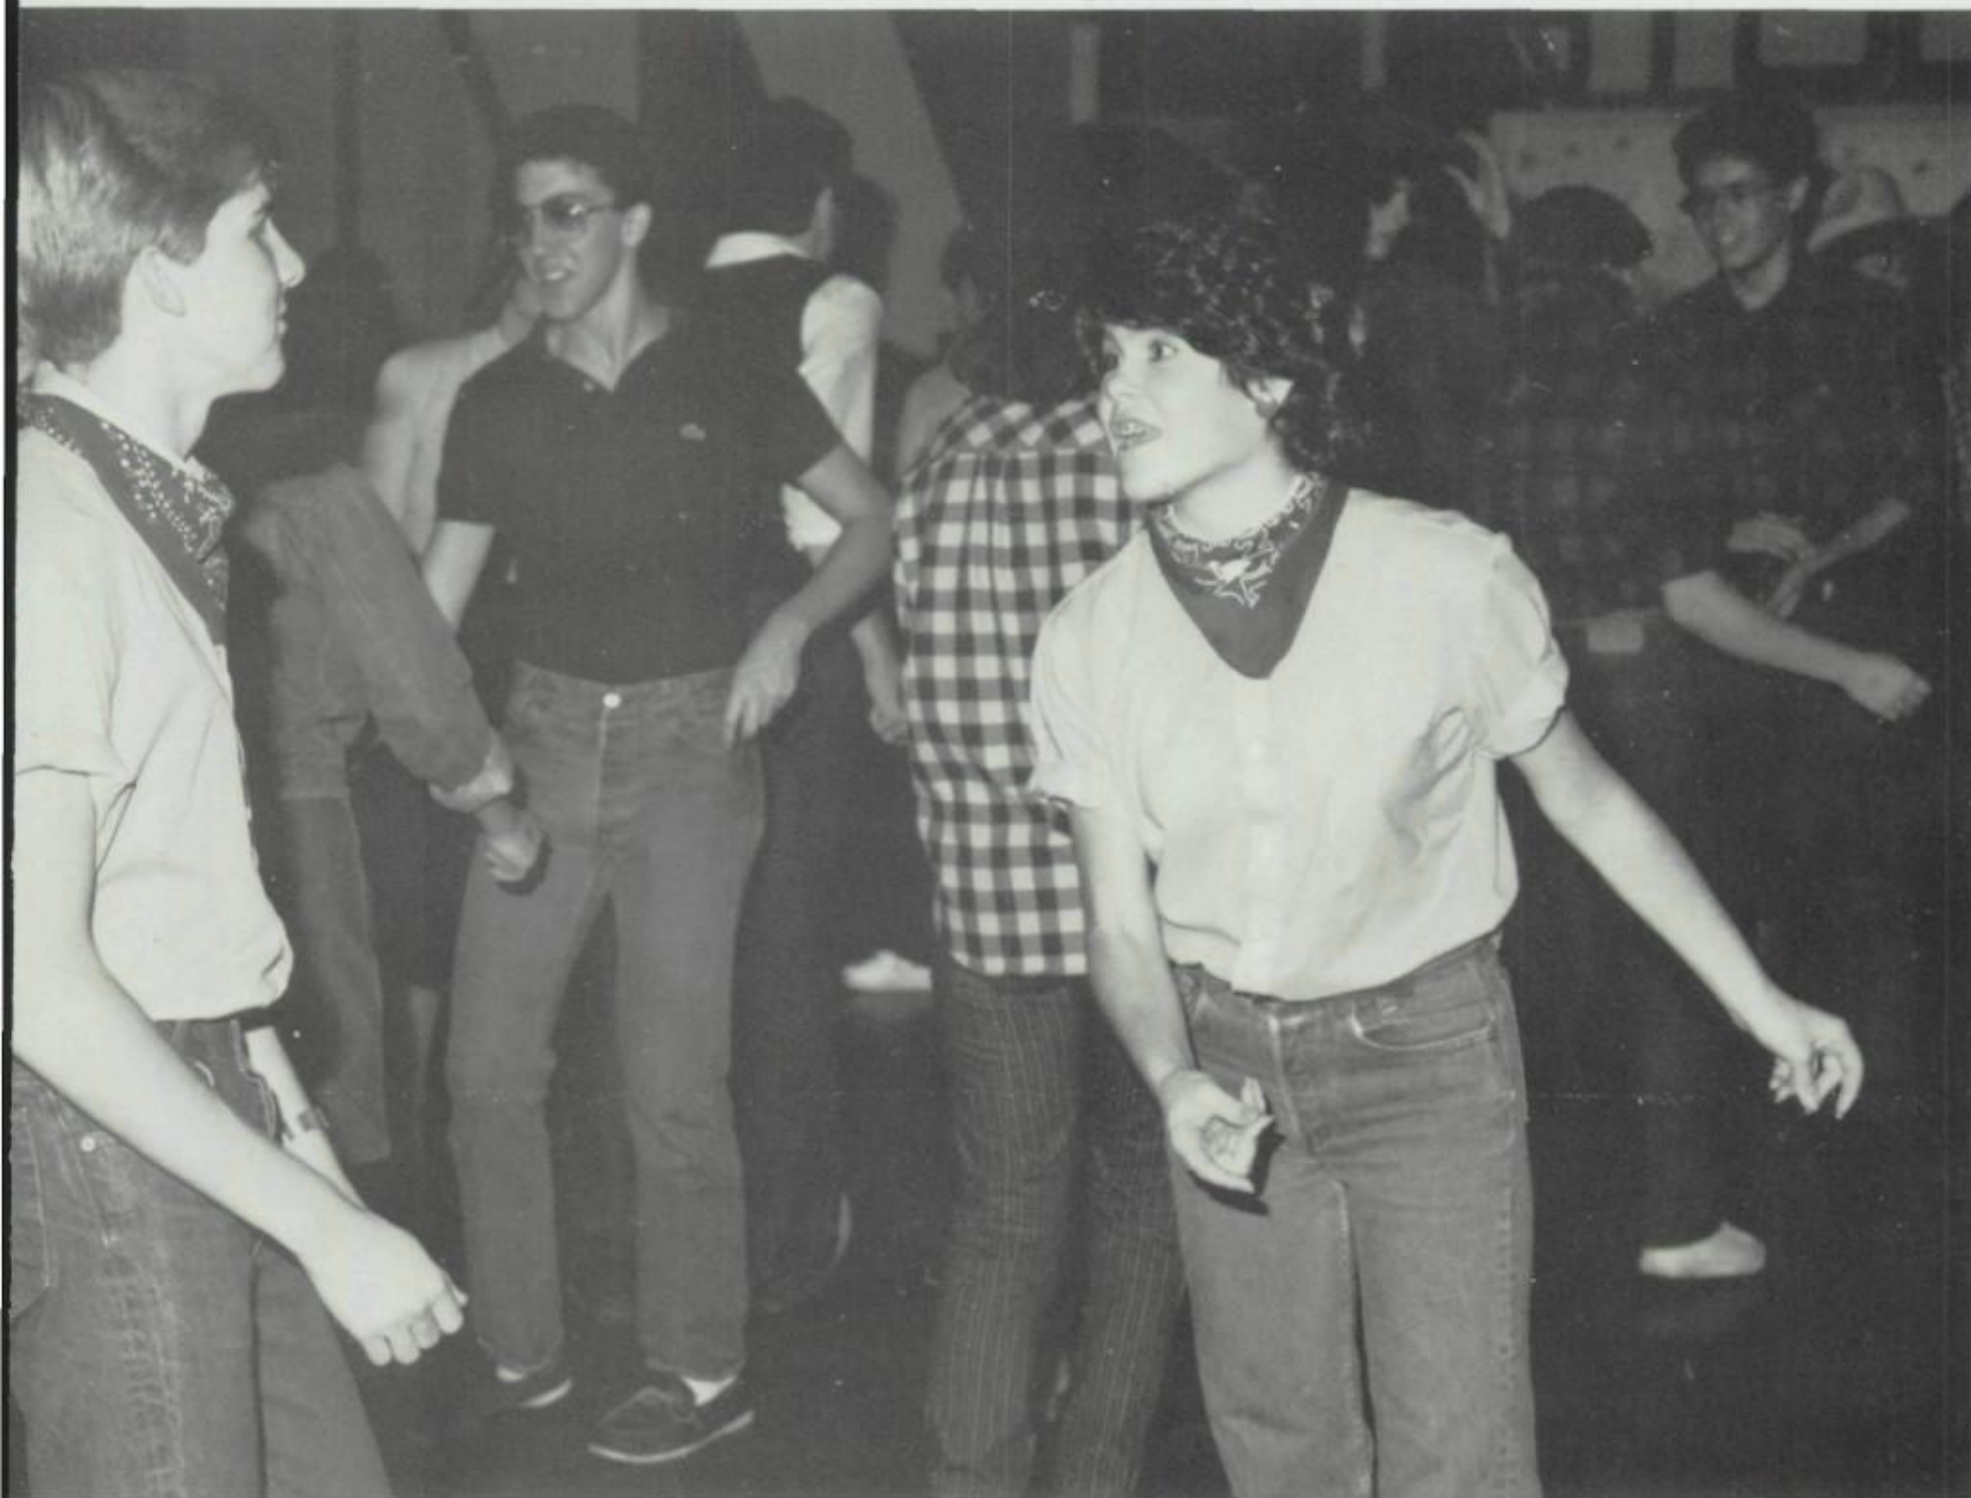

The cafeteria took on a new look on November 11. It was decorated with bales of hay and horse saddles, and took on the appearance of an old fashioned western barn. Thanks to all those who attended and the activities commission the couples only dance turned out to be a great success.

Pictures were taken early in the evening, followed by entertainment provided by the band, Back Streets. Cookies and brownies were provided by the Student Council, free of charge and soft drinks were sold for those who needed the refreshment.

Jackie Shea commented, "Although I arrived late, it was worth it. I had a lot of fun and will never forget it." ☺☺

As the band Back Streets provides the entertainment, Junior Susie Stephen and date dance. Some couples came in matching outfits to show their western spirit.

Keeping In Style

This year fashion has gone through some severe changes. The most obvious change being from the mini look to the mod. For those who thought that these styles didn't fit them, they also had the choice of going with "Flashdance Fever" or, the reliable preppy.

The old style is back! From the 1960's English mod has been revived. Hairstyles are short and originality in length, color, and style is the key. To go with the fashion there is big, shiny, colorful jewelry. Thrift shops have become popular places to find these styles. (and at a good price!)

This year there has been an obvious contribution to fashion by the movies. "Flashdance" has caused a craze of torn sweatshirts worn over tank tops and big bulky clothes. With this has come the cries of many mothers saying "What are you doing to your sweatshirt with those scissors!" Well, guess what mom, this is in fashion.

Then, there is the preppy look which seems to never die but just fade. Wearing top siders, argyle socks, plaid shorts, polo shirts, and driving convertible VW rabbits, they show that there is unity in numbers.

As you can see and have just now heard, fashion has gone through changes. The decision is up to you, Mod? Flashdance Fever? or Preppy.

Proudly showing off what they think is in fashion for the 1983-84 year are Rene Zavala, Tiffany Tapert, Vicky Camargo, and Laura McClanathan. Students expressed their individuality when it came to times for freedress and were pleased when the opportunity arose.

Wearing a sweatshirt, miniskirt, and contemporary nylons, is senior Vicky Camargo. Vicky stated that although this wasn't her everyday attire she liked dressing different.

"Wouldn't it be great if we could dress like this everyday," said Tiffany Tapert to Rene Zavala. Well this dream was far from reality because this year Alverno's uniform regulations were strongly enforced.

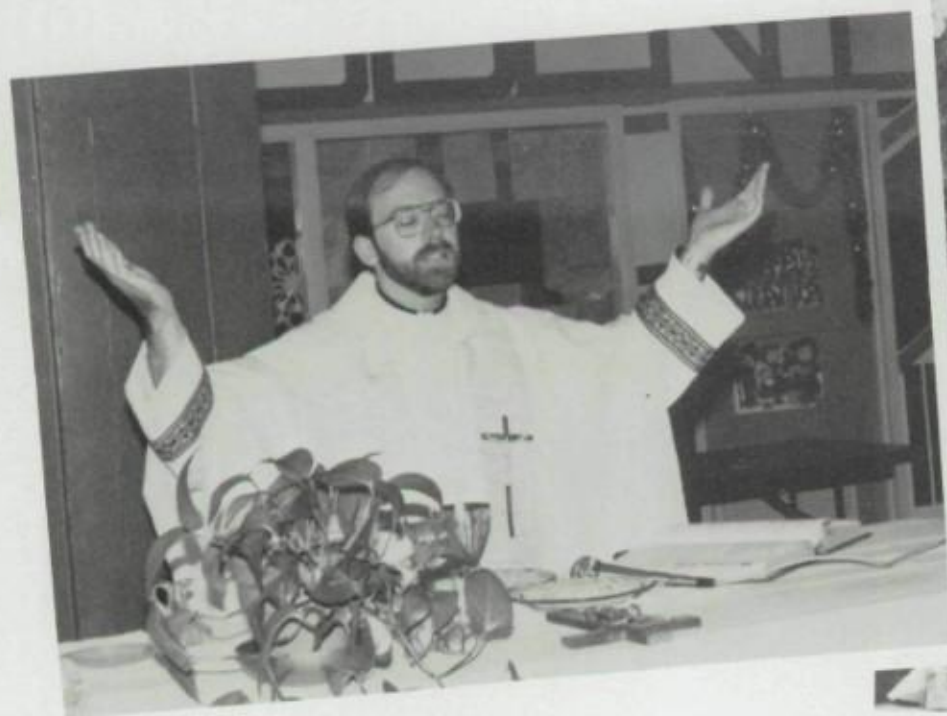

Showing off her fashion is Laura McClanathan. Larua stated "Although dressing Prep is expensive it is worth the money."

Shown are some of the latest fashions in footwear fetishes. Included are styles such as the top sider, plastic shoe, 9-West, tennis shoe, penny loafer, China flats and the capezio.

"Last chance to enter your name in the drawing," says Senior Denise Tinker. A stuffed stocking filled with candy and nick knacks was given to the lucky winner.

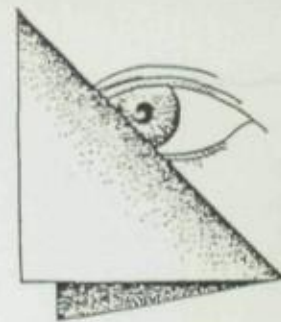

Singing their hearts out to Christmas classics is the Alverno Chorus. This year the chorus had the opportunity of giving singing presentations at the Santa Anita Mall and at Brookside Park.

Celebrating the Christmas mass is Father Chris Ponnett. During the mass, a play of the birth of Jesus was enacted.

Here comes Santa, or is it the Senior tree. This year the tradition of the tree decorating contest was reinstated with the Sophomores as victors.

'Tis the Season . . .

Christmas festivities got underway with a week filled with spirit, good cheer, and lots of fun. The week began December 12th and continued until the 16th.

The week consisted of a presentation by the chorus, a door and tree decorating contest, candygrams, dress-up days, a giant school party on the terrace, Christmas kits, portraits with Santa, and a drawing for a stuffed stocking.

Student Council members were very busy during this time. On behalf of the Student Body, they surprised the faculty by giving each member a homemade stuffed stocking.

Christmas started off on a good note and could not help but get better! ☺☺

All smiles are Seniors Liz Oberreiter, Laura Gomez, and Tonya Foote. Student Council put on a dance to show their Christmas spirit.

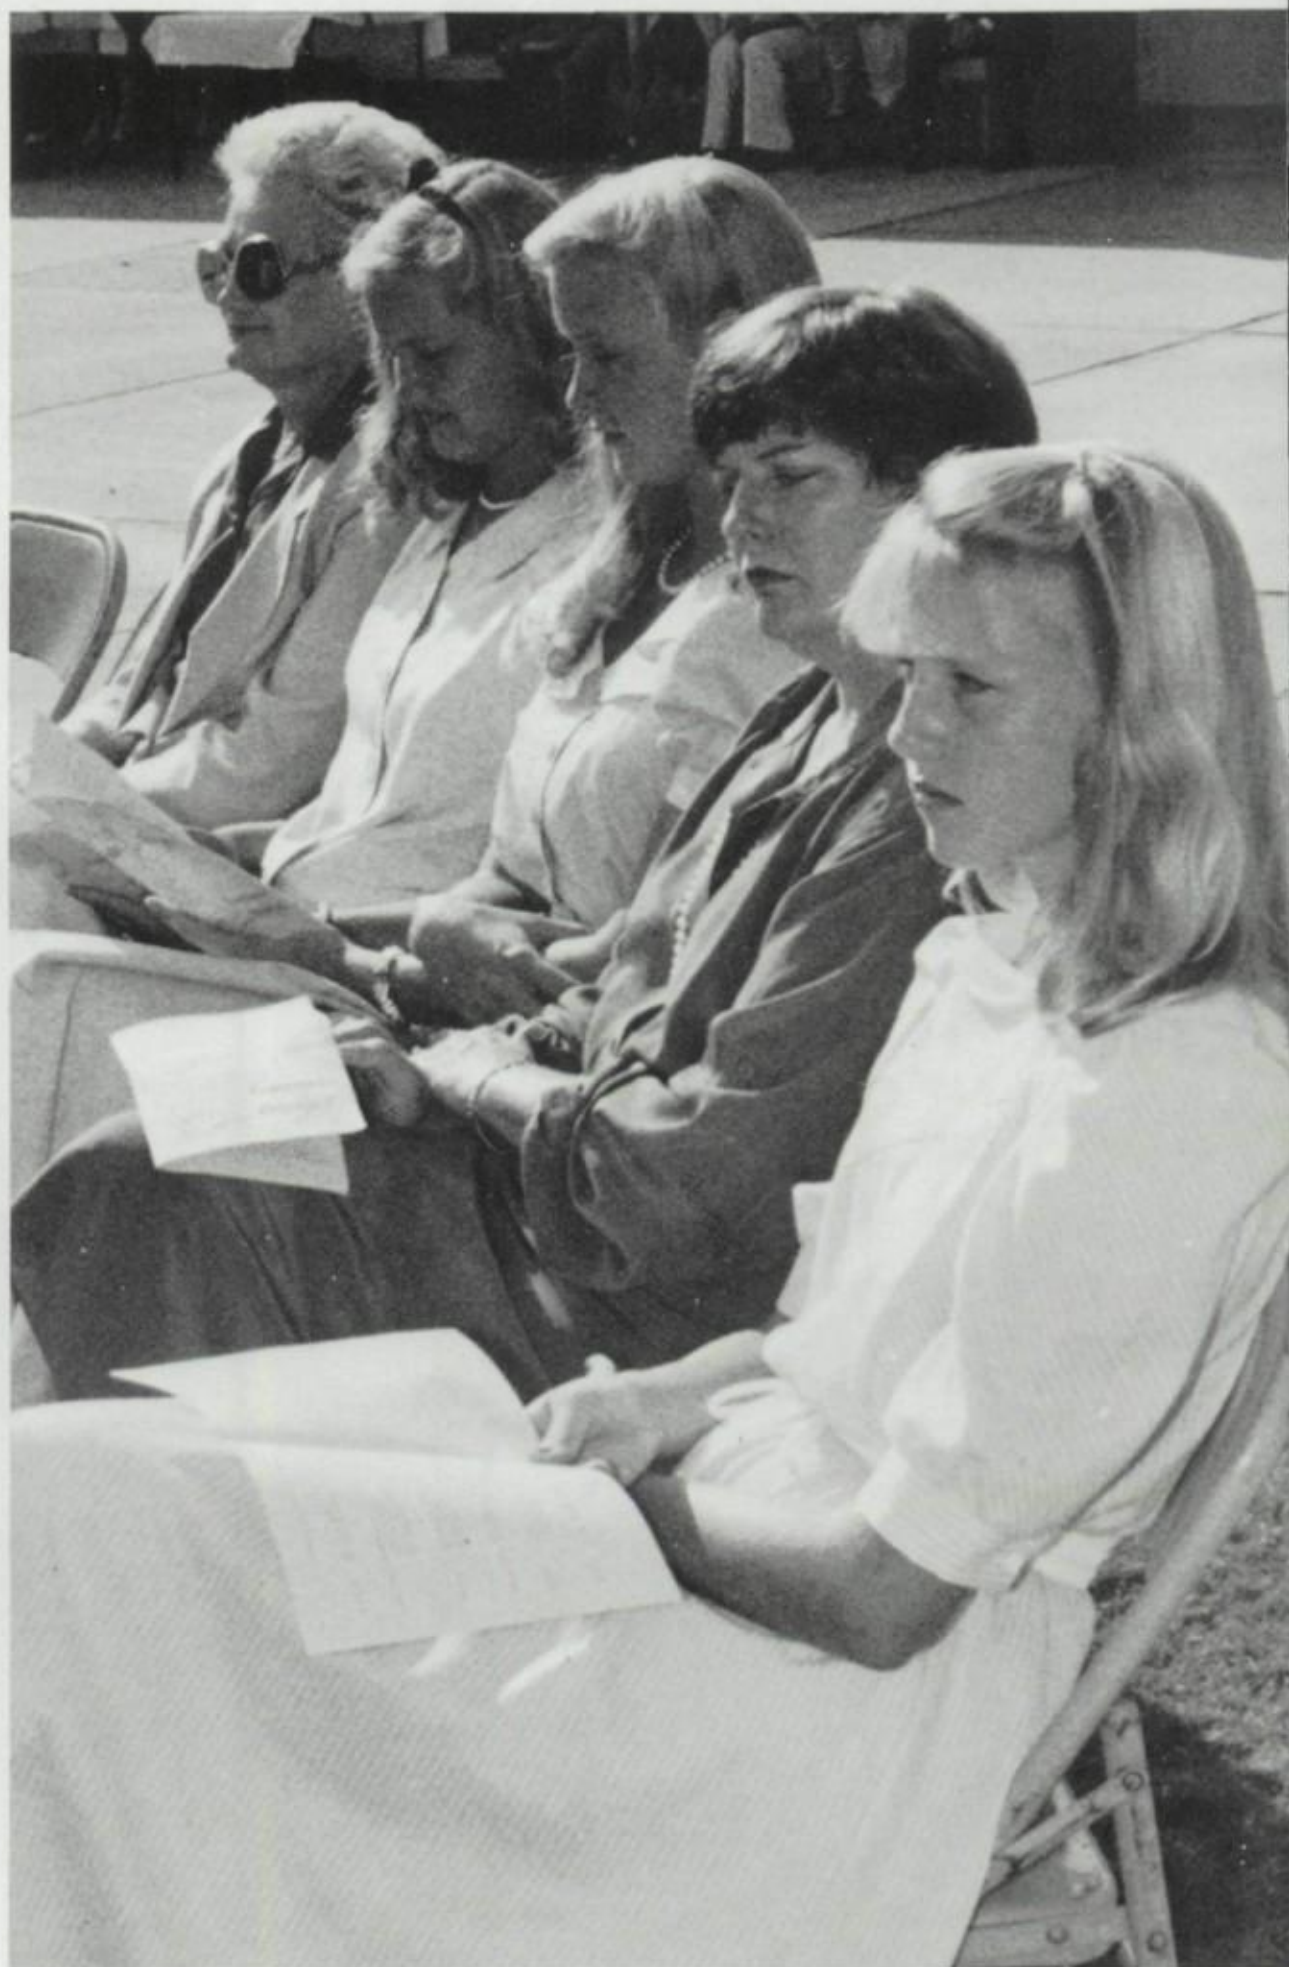

The Mama's & the Papa's

The annual Mother/Daughter Breakfast took place on September 25. The morning got underway with the celebration of mass on the terrace. After mass, mothers and daughters resigned to the cafeteria for breakfast which was cooked and served by the fathers.

On February 1st, the Father/Daughter Dinner took place. The festivities included the announcing of the winner of the Alverno's Parent Association Raffle, entertainment, and a delicious dinner. ☺☺

At the Father/Daughter Dinner are Coleen Wilson and her "daddy". Thanks to entertainment and laughter the night was a success.

Attending the mass at the Mother/Daughter Breakfast are Suzy Underbrink and her mother and Carol and Mary Dinniene and their mother. The mass provided the girls and their mothers with the time to reflect on specially selected readings which united mothers with their daughters.

Proudly providing the entertainment at the Mother/Daughter Breakfast Mass are John Delaney, Charles Tinker, and Tom McNamara. Without the fathers help, the day would not have been possible.

"Mmm . . . doesn't that dinner look delicious!" Debbie Rice and her father are enjoying themselves, over good food and conversation. For those who wanted a keepsake of the evening pictures were taken.

Putting his cooking talents to the test at the Mother/Daughter Breakfast is Mr. Gomez. The fathers spent that morning cooking the breakfast in the cafeteria.

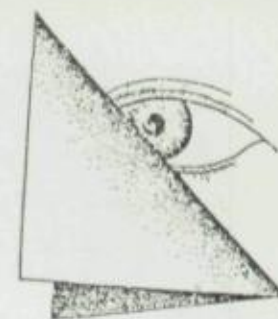

Coming to the rescue, by taking the place of her father, is Susie Stephen's older brother. Susie said, "I had lots of fun but am sorry that my father could not be there."

Keeping her date and a friend's date company is Julie Murphy. Many students decided to sit out a dance to socialize and get acquainted with each other.

The theme of the Cherry Blossom appeared on one of two cakes provided. The theme song was "Time Will Reveal" from the group DeBarge.

Time Will Reveal

On February 25th, decorated with lavender, pink, and white, the villa was the site for the annual Sophomore Cherry Blossom. Flower arrangements, crystal chandeliers, warm fireplaces, and ballroom dresses added to the eloquent atmosphere. With more than 50 couples in attendance, the annual dance was a great success.

The theme for this year's Cherry Blossom was "Time Will Reveal" and appeared on one of two cakes served.

The Cherry Blossom began at 8:00 with pictures taken by a professional photographer, for those who wanted lasting memories. The music was provided by a D.J. and couples danced until the night was over.

A big thanks goes to moderator, Ms. Virginia Winchester and the Sophomore class officers. Without their time and effort the evening would not have been such a great success. ☺

Carefully pouring herself a cup of punch is Kate Coyer. Many of the couples commented on the beautiful decorations in the villa.

Posing for their Cherry Blossom portrait are Carol Dinniene and her date. The traditional stairway, decorated with flowers, was used as the background.

A break between dances provides Linda Chavez and her date a time to get some punch. Many couples laughed and talked during this time.

The Unofficial Layout of the 1984

For those who might be oblivious to the Olympics, we are going to inform you of the in's and out's of the 1984 Summer Olympic Games. This year the XXIIIrd Olympic Games are being held here in Los Angeles.

The games will commence on July 28, 1984, at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum. On this date the famous "parade of nations" will be held. Over 10,000 athletes and officials will participate in this spectacular display. The Greek athletes will lead the parade as they always do, in commemoration of the Ancient Olympics and their sponsorship of the first Modern Games in 1896.

The opening of the Games will officially be declared by United States President Ronald Reagan and International Olympic Committee President Juan Antonio Samaranch.

To light the Olympic Flame is a runner arriving with the Olympic Torch, which started in Olympia, Greece and was carried by a relay of runners to Los Angeles, the host city. The Olympic Flame will continuously burn during the two-week celebration.

The official symbol for the 1984 Olympics is the floating star, in red, white, and blue.

The events to be played during this two-week period are as follows: Archery, Basketball, Boxing, Canoeing, Cycling, Diving, Equestrian, Fencing, Gymnastics, Handball, Hockey, Judo, Pentathlon, Rowing, Shooting, Soccer, Swimming, Track and Field, Volleyball, Water Polo, Weightlifting, Wrestling, Yachting.

"The important thing in the Olympic Games is not winning but taking part. The essential thing in life is not conquering but fighting well." — Baron Pierre de Coubertin, founder Modern Olympic Games. ☺

In the Olympic Spirit, are faculty members Mrs. Lana Craig and Mr. Jon Pederson. Throughout the school year one could feel the anticipation of the upcoming Summer Olympic Games.

"Jenny has an extremely creative ability. She not only uses her ability in the arts, but also in her daily life, through talking with others and showing her genuine beauty," describes a close friend, Senior Sarah Van Wickle.

Senior Jennifer Berkley has an exceptional talent in art. Currently, she is taking Basic Art, however she also attends an art class at the Art Center of Design in Pasadena on weekends.

Art instructor Mrs. Pat Macdonald uses the words bright, natural, and genuine when thinking of Jenny. She is an inspiration to those who know her.

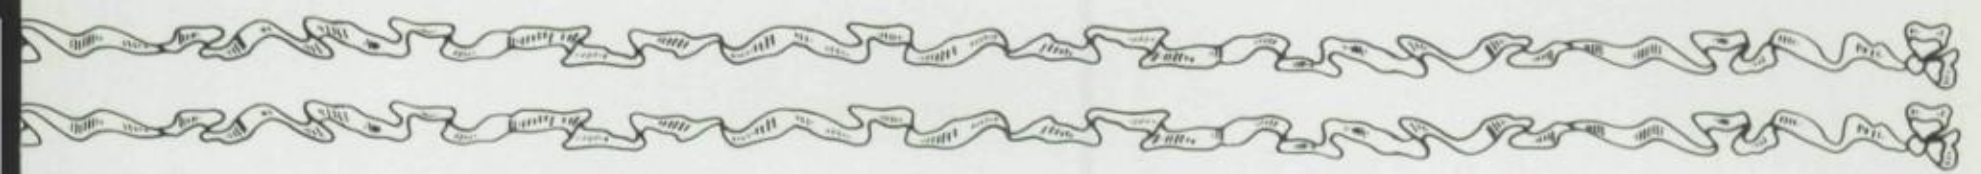

Although this is Jenny's first year in art, her ability seems to be very promising. This is shown through the art she creates. ☺☺

Smiling as usual, Senior Jenny Berkley displays her creativity. Even through a clown face, Jenny's personality still can be seen

The Art of Dance

"GOTTA DANCE!" As each department continues to expand its variety of course offerings, the Fine Arts department doesn't miss a beat.

Empty classroom space, the terrace and the P.E. locker room now all have one thing in common . . . they have become the "stage" for various groups of students working on their latest "combinations" for dance class.

The courses, led by Ms. Geri Fuchigami, have proven to be a new dimension in study for Alverno students.

The courses provide not only a different artistic means of self-expression for the girls, but a physical challenge as well. ☺☺

The creative talent to draw, write in Calligraphy, and more is what Senior Jeanne McGuire possesses. Currently, Jeanne is enrolled in Drawing and Painting and in Calligraphy. "There's a little white duck a singing in my classroom" is a refrain that sings of Jeanne. She has the gift to draw beautifully; children and animals are often her subjects," describes Art instructor Mrs. Pat MacDonald. Through her creative personality and her sense of humor, Jeanne illustrates her exceptional talent. "Jeanne and I have known each other for 15 years and she's my best friend. She is understanding, easy to talk to, and very talented," comments friend Louise Shinnick. Jeanne plans to attend PCC where she hopes to major in art. ☺☺

Often noted for her artistic ability, Senior Jeanne McGuire was also noted for her melodic impression of a "little white duck."

Here's Looking at Organizations

Through the years, it has come to our attention that school is not all books and homework. School is a place of learning certain subjects such as Math, English, and Religion, but also a place where people with the same interests get together. Many girls feel that clubs and organizations help add to the spice of the school.

This year many new clubs were organized. Others returned for another year. No matter what the idea of the club, it allowed each girl to express herself in her own way. Junior Lisa Abbett stated, "I think that the clubs brought everyone together, but also allowed each girl to develop her talents individually."

"Which meeting do I go to?" Cindy Stefele asks herself. With so many different organizations it was difficult to attend all meetings.

Many organizations dealt directly with the school and others were created strictly for fun. Some offered activities for members only and others offered them to anyone who wanted to attend. Each organization at Alverno helped the girls grow and mature at their own rate. Since the girls in clubs usually had something in common, they often formed lasting friendships with people who before were strangers.

Taking a "look at" all of the organizations, one can definitely see that we've come a long way baby! All organizations offered one thing: a chance to boost school morale and help when needed. ☺☺

Showing visitors the ropes of the Student Council are Lori Mayer, Theresa Barcelos and Tammy Militello. At Alverno's new "play day" many students participated in the leadership class.

During a Student Council meeting, Sarah Van Wickle, Mrs. Mary McCullough and Sarah Alcorn discuss upcoming events. These meetings provided a time for Student Council to talk with the administrators.

Posing for the traditional family portrait is our magnificent ASB.

Looking for upcoming events are Jackie Shea and Theresa Barcelos. The ASB officers made sure that the calendar was full of activities.

"That's a good question," says Mrs. Mary McCullough to Theresa Barcelos. She worked SO HARD to make ASB effective.

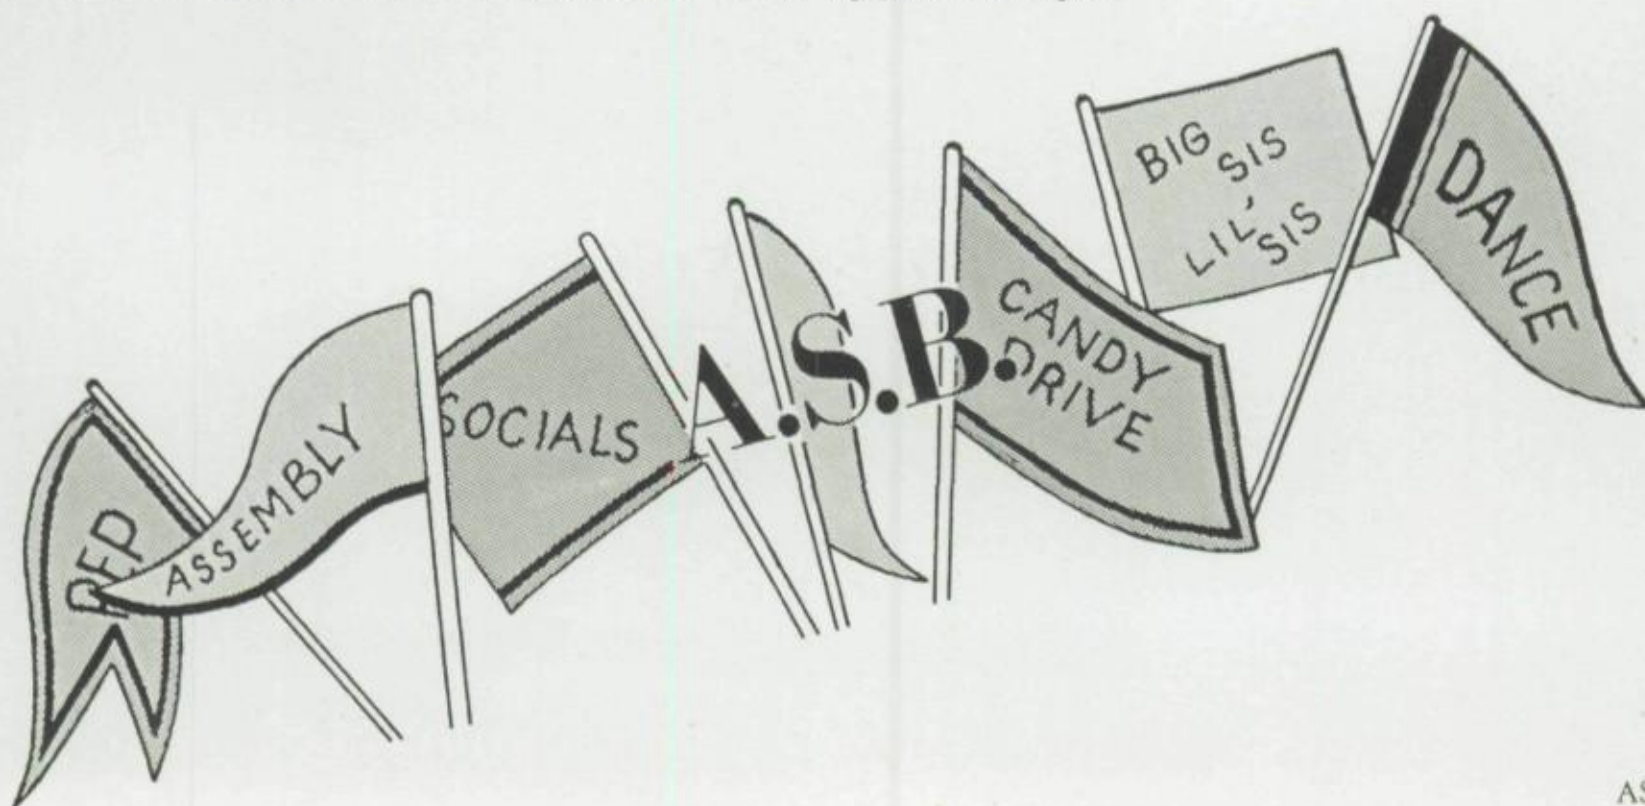

The theme of ASB was "Trip the Light Fantastic." In the days of Fred Astaire and Ginger Roger's ball room dancing was the in thing to do. When a couple wished to be spot lighted and acknowledged, they would shout "Trip the Light Fantastic!" all other couples would then step back forming a circle around the special couple while a spot light followed them around the room. The ASB captured this romantic notion and established it as its theme. The goals were as follows: 1) Good rapport between faculty, students and administration 2) more activities, 3) good structure in student council.

Needless to say, they more than achieved their goals which made this year a truly wonderful one. A new-comer was Mrs. Mary McCullough. She took on the responsibility of Vice-Principal, Activities and Registrar. Mrs. McCullough was a stepping stone in the history of the school because she changed the old cliché of "all work, no play" to Hard Work + Play = An environment that lends itself to fun and learning simultaneously. ☺☺

Finally finding the time to relax is Liz Oberreiter. She was always so busy with yearbook, that it's a miracle she was able to be in the Spanish club too.

The Spanish club's President was Liz Oberreiter with Lori Mayer as Vice-President. The goal of this club was to learn about the different types of Spanish cultures and raise money for less fortunate Latin-American children in Pasadena. Throughout the year this club sponsored bake sales and raffles to pay for all of their activities. These people also visited the children at Villa Esperanza, a place where handicapped kids could go for special education.

Dedicated people in the Koleidescope club worked furiously to make the "Koleidescope Magazine" a successful one. The purpose of this club was to make a good magazine that would replace last years "Voice." Some boxes were placed in various locations around the campus where students could submit their writing or artwork. This group did a great job of publicizing their club; and one way was by showing off their fuzzy mascot "Scope." They encouraged people to write in order for their work to be considered for publication. Everyone in the club submitted some kind of work. ☺☺

"There is no way I'm going to stay after school Lisa, and do this, so I'm going to get it over with now!" says Natalie Cormier. "Sure Natalie, but don't you remember you promised to help some of the members of the club," says Lisa Abbett.

"I'm tired, I don't want to run 2 miles after school!" says Katie Burke to Adrienne Genofsky. Often members of the running club felt this way, however their effort to even run on days when they were tired paid off.

"Get up you guys," says Lynn Huettis to Andre Harkness and Stephanie Brkich. They were a few of the ski club members who proved that the club wasn't just for pros!

Every Friday after school, the running club met to run approximately two miles in the city of Sierra Madre. The goal of the group was to participate in a 10K run and not be the last ones to reach the finish line . . . Senior Sandy Garcia said of the moderator Mr. Paul Linn "Since he has had a lot of experience running, his enthusiasm helped us hang in there!"

Big Bear Lake, Waterman and Wrightwood are a few of the places the ski club went to ski. The class consisted of beginners and real pros! It didn't matter if you weren't a great skier because the club was organized to get people together to have fun. There was a minimal fee that helped pay for bus rides.

Becoming aware of the customs, principles and moral standards of different countries is what the International club hoped to accomplish. As a group they went to see cultural shows as a Spanish Flamenco show at Occidental College, and Equadorian show in L.A. They celebrated Cinco de Mayo by selling mexican sweet bread and playing old mexican songs. ☺☺

"Hey Sandy, I think it would be cute to parade around in international costumes," states Sheila Garcia to Sandra Garcia. "There is no way we would get away with wearing those costumes," stated Sandy.

"What play should we perform this month?" says President Janet Voss to co-President Nena Carpenter and moderator Ms. Carla Tomaso. The President had a good rapport with their moderator therefore ideas could be expressed freely.

Conducting the pep club meeting as enthusiastically as ever is pep club moderator Ms. Carol Laderer. Junior Florabel Ginibi said that she was such a good moderator that she made being a member of the pep club worthwhile.

One of the largest clubs on campus was the pep club, consisting of 45 people. The president of the club was Senior Bridgid McCann. The jobs of this club included cheering at home and away games, having mini-assemblies, and spicing up school life. On certain days, it was easy to spot a pep club member because of the hats that they wore to distinguish themselves from the rest of the student body . . . but some of them didn't need the hats to be distinguished.

Drama club Presidents Janet Voss and Nena Carpenter were very enthusiastic about their club. They said that the purpose of their club was to provide entertainment for the student body and to help develop the dramatic ability of each of its members. During the year, they performed a number of "little skits" and one big play. Once a week the club met to plan ways which would make their club more exciting. As a group they attended workshops and throughout the year worked towards promoting their club. 66

In their meeting, Presidents Manal Rabadi and Maggie Clark explain what issues they will discuss. The team worked very hard to become great debaters.

Students must attend endless meetings in order to develop a successful club, so here juniors Cynthia Knight and Maria Marquez meet to talk about future plans for their club.

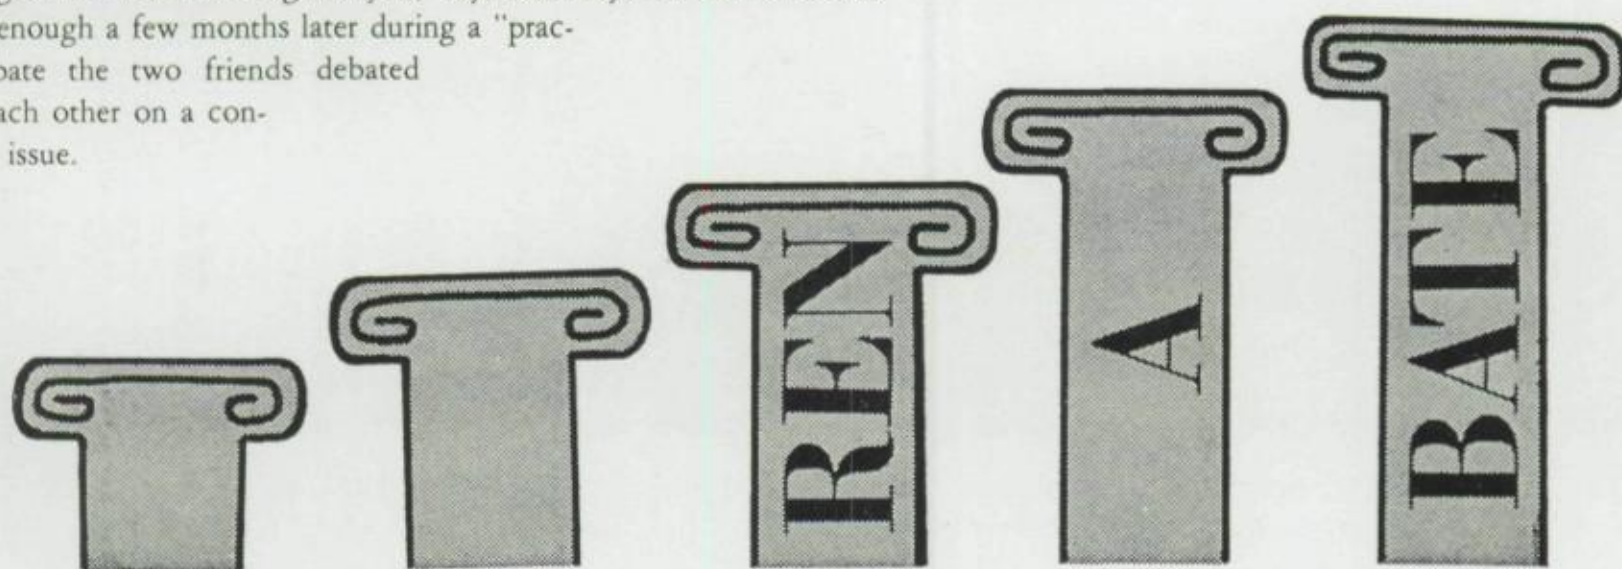

"The purpose of our club is to learn about the Renaissance and make other students aware of that era," stated President Cynthia Knight. The Renaissance club had regular meetings to discuss plans for organizing their own fair; and after much hard work, their dream became reality. Members also attended the annual Renaissance fair in Agoura. After learning about the European countries during the Renaissance age and its customs, this talented group made beautiful wreaths, and lavish costumes.

Maggie Clark and Manal Rabadi established for the first time, in a long time, a debate team. They believed their club was important because it gave students a chance to defend and argue their point of view, be able to present ideas logically and effectively, and experience speaking before an audience. They met with the debate teams of St. Francis High School and Don Bosco Technical Institute. At the end of the year they displayed their talent when they had "the Big Debate" with St. Francis. ☸

"It's going to be fun to debate against you," says Lori Mayer to Gem Gonzales . . . Sure enough a few months later during a "practice" debate the two friends debated against each other on a controversial issue.

NHS/CSF member Victoria Camargo talks to Judith Romejko and Katie Schimmoller about school stuff and "fun" stuff. They believed it was important not to over-study, therefore, dedicated some of their time for leisure and relaxation.

NHS/CSF's Vice-President Jackie Pose listens attentively to a friend's editorial on a highly important subject. Jackie was always eager to learn and always kept her chin up and made others smile.

Two members of NHS/CSF, Maria Vergara and Gem Marie Gonzales, are seen talking to a fellow member of the organization, Senior Jackie Pose. All three believed that mixing conversation with study was the only way of keeping sane.

While interviewing Seniors, Heidi Wassef and Barbara Quinones, both agreed that being in these organizations meant studying "a little bit more" and "a little bit harder" to maintain high standard grades. Moreover, they added that it was worth the struggle because it was self-satisfying to know how much one had achieved.

To be a member of the National Honor Society and the California Scholarship Federation takes a lot of hard work and dedication. Many students found that in order to keep up the "Above-Average" grades required to stay in these organizations, they had to give up some fun time and devote it to school work. Araceli Penafuerte is quoted as saying, "It was hard to be in NHS/CSF because that meant keeping up your grades and that meant studying even more!" However, the hard work they did was not in vain because many seniors found that colleges considered them more seriously when applying knowing that they belonged to these organizations. Other members of NHS/CSF found that belonging to this sort of organization gave them a great sense of accomplishment and "boosted their egos!" Their moderator, Dr. Gary Cromwell said he felt privileged and proud to be their moderator. Later we discovered that Dr. Cromwell himself had been on NHS for two years in High School. ☺☺

It seems as if Lori Mayer and Anne Marie Parent are really buried in their work. And they were, during the entire year, planning things for campus ministry.

Why is Sarah Alcorn so thrilled in this picture? Because she is headed for an Athletics Commission meeting! She was as enthusiastic about her commission on the first day of school as she was on the last.

"Oh, hi, good morning!" "Wake up everyone!" These are a few of the ways that Sarah Van Wickle got our attention in the morning and delivered all of the school's good news. She made even the littlest news seem meaningful!

The Commissions that existed this year on campus were as follows: Commission of Activities, Commission of Communication, New Student Orientation, Campus Ministry and G.A.A. or Girls Athletic Association.

Spicey Sarah Van Wickle made every day's announcements funny, interesting, and worthwhile.

Sarah Alcorn did a fantastic job of announcing all upcoming sports events and making people want to come, see, and cheer at the games.

No two people could have been better for the job of organizing the years "fun" activities as Tracey Allen and Denise Tinker. They did a wonderful job.

The freshmen were happy to have such a dear person like Tammy Militello to welcome them to Alverno. She made the freshmen feel truly welcome.

Anne Marie Parent and Lori Mayer did much for their commission (Campus Ministry) and got just as much out of it. ☺☺

A few students were beginning to ask if Seniors Denise Tinker and Tracey Allen were glued to that spot because they were seen there quite often discussing upcoming events. "Tracey, what do you think of having the dance on this date?" says Denise Tinker to Tracey Allen. "Well . . .?"

"Yes Tammy, I do believe the freshmen will enjoy having a picnic with their big sisters. That should start the year off well, both for the seniors and the freshmen," says the moderator of New Student Orientation Mrs. Denise Yagel to Tammy Militello. Tammy did an outstanding job of organizing things to do for all of the schools new members. The freshmen were thankful for her efforts and believe the year was even better, just knowing she was around and ready to help.

Typing, and doing a lot of it, was one of the many things that making a yearbook had in store which Theresa Barcelos soon found out.

"Oh, we only need two thousand dollars more to pay for the book, no problem . . ." says Moderator Jean Bidwell to Angi Billotti, the Business manager of the Troubadour. The staff admitted it wasn't easy to raise money for the book.

Endless hours are spent drawing layouts good enough to go in the yearbook. Here, Maria Hernandez concentrates on drawing one that the editor will approve of and simultaneously trains a new staff member, Debbie Givigliano, on how to draw layouts and write copy. Maria said "I took this class because I thought it was going to be fun and easy, and I was right about the fun part!"

Being on the yearbook staff is a lot of fun but it's also a lot of hard work, which requires staying after school, staying up late nights and often working on weekends and holidays. The following is an illustration of a day in the life of a yearbook staff member.

7:00 a.m. "Mom, I'm leaving early, I have to work on yearbook."

8:00 a.m. "These layouts look terrible and my copy stinks; I need help,"

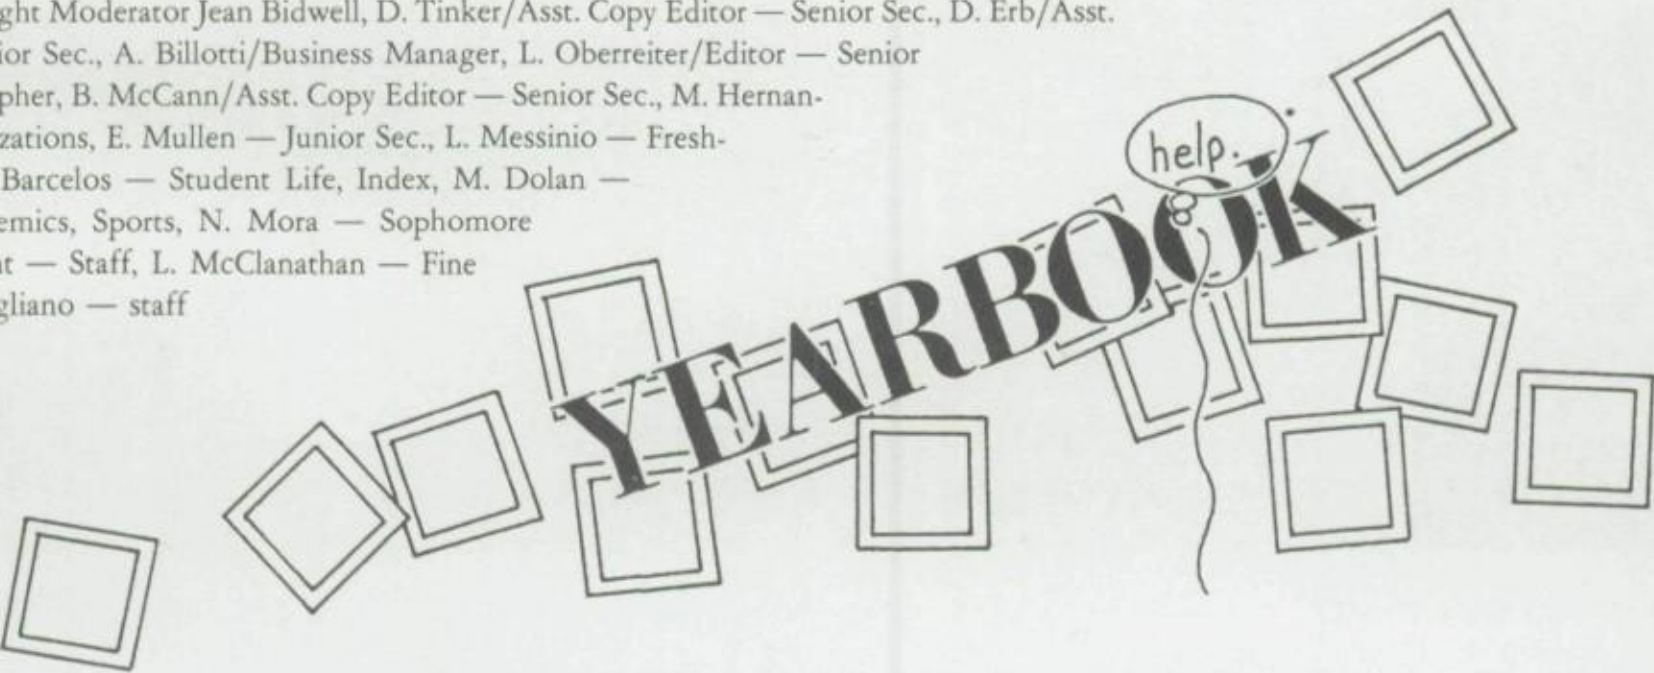

10:00 a.m. "I'm sorry, I'm staying in for break, I have to fit captions and crop pictures."

12:30 p.m. "I can't go out to lunch because I have to write more captions and layouts."

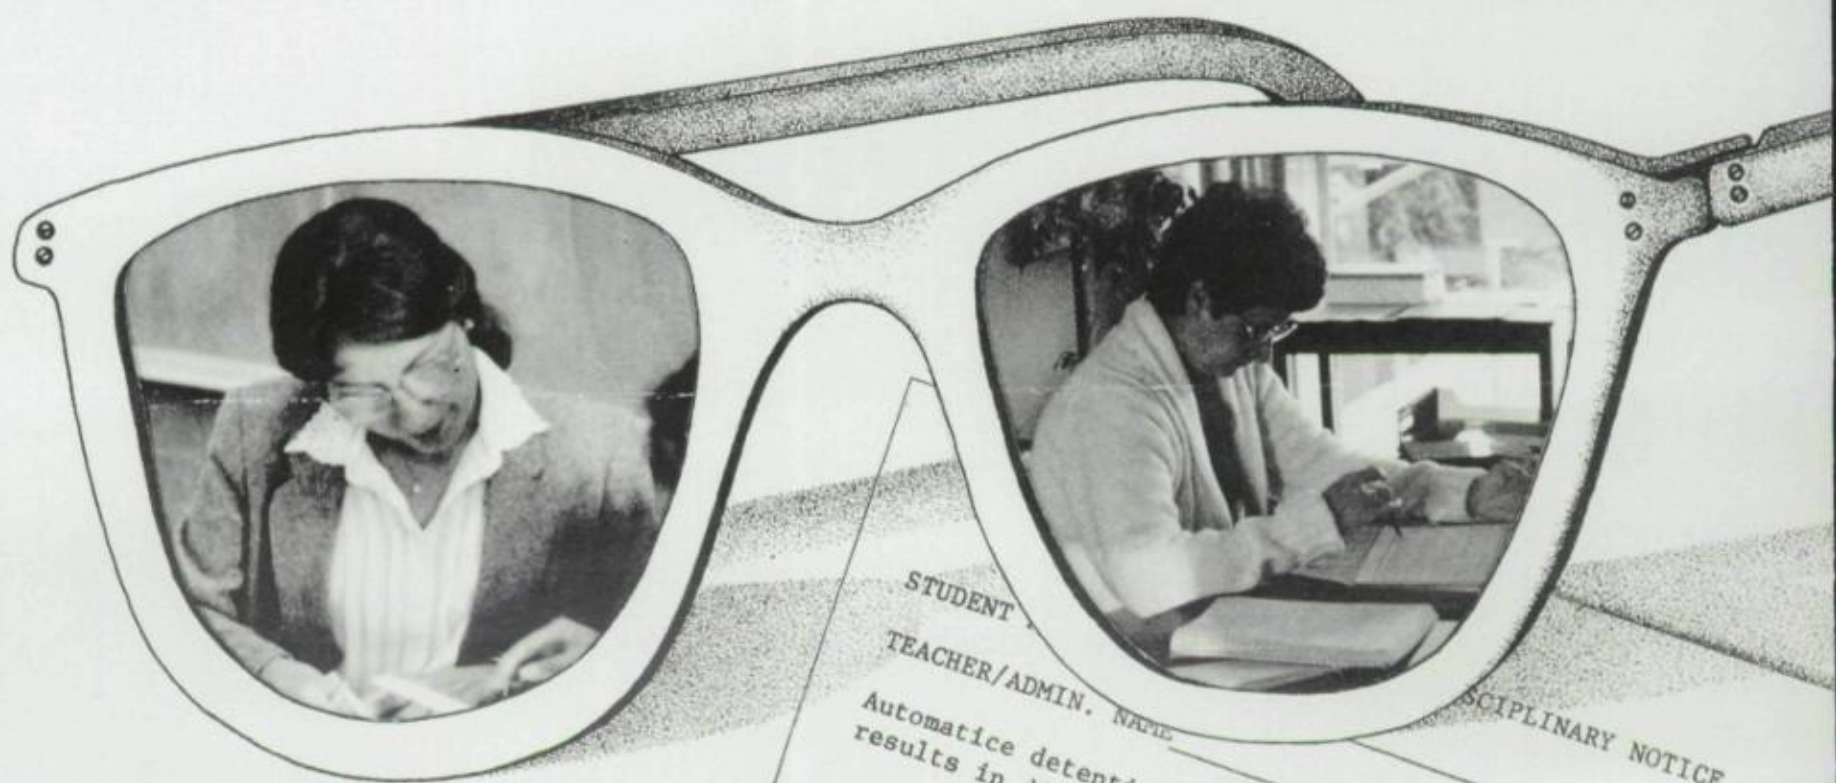

2:30 p.m. "You go home without me, I have to work on yearbook."

6:00 p.m. "Mom, I won't be home for dinner but I'll try to be home soon."

9:00 p.m. "Everything is finally done and I can go home now! It's been an exhausting day but it was worth it. We're gonna have a great yearbook!!!" ☺☺

Sweet cookie! If you're not up to the assigned chapter and prepared for my class then I don't know what you're doing in this classroom? O.K. Suzy Q, so you know the answer?

Day after day, high standards were enforced in every academic class. Girls were expected to be prepared with books and homework, ready to participate in class discussions.

Peeking outside to get a glimpse of "Hollywood on Campus" are Kimberly Stepanovich and Ruby Vera. Actors were one of the more pleasant distractions from books girls experienced when filming was going on.

During some spare lunch time Lisa Abbett takes a turn from her academic load. Magazines and contemporary novels were often read as an escape from readin', ritin', rithmic'!

Thanks to these "great expectations" students benefited tremendously. Needless to say, in the process of such academic challenge, the girls found that their teachers, who are a very unique group of people, really do care, are interested in their lives, and want them to succeed.

Our teachers, thanks to the smaller classes and fewer students, were able to be tuned into each girl as an individual, giving special attention to her personal needs and accomplishments, therefore allowing each girl the opportunity to develop to her fullest. Teachers strove to challenge every mind academically, acted as counselors for personal problems, became our friends and showed they cared.

Our faculty here is invaluable, and has made the year, along with academic standards and challenges, not quite as difficult as it might have appeared to be at day one. ☺☺

Just make sure she's doing it right, Liliana Troya looks over Manal Rabadi's shoulder, at her government assignment. Friends often worked together to complete the seemingly unending homework burden!

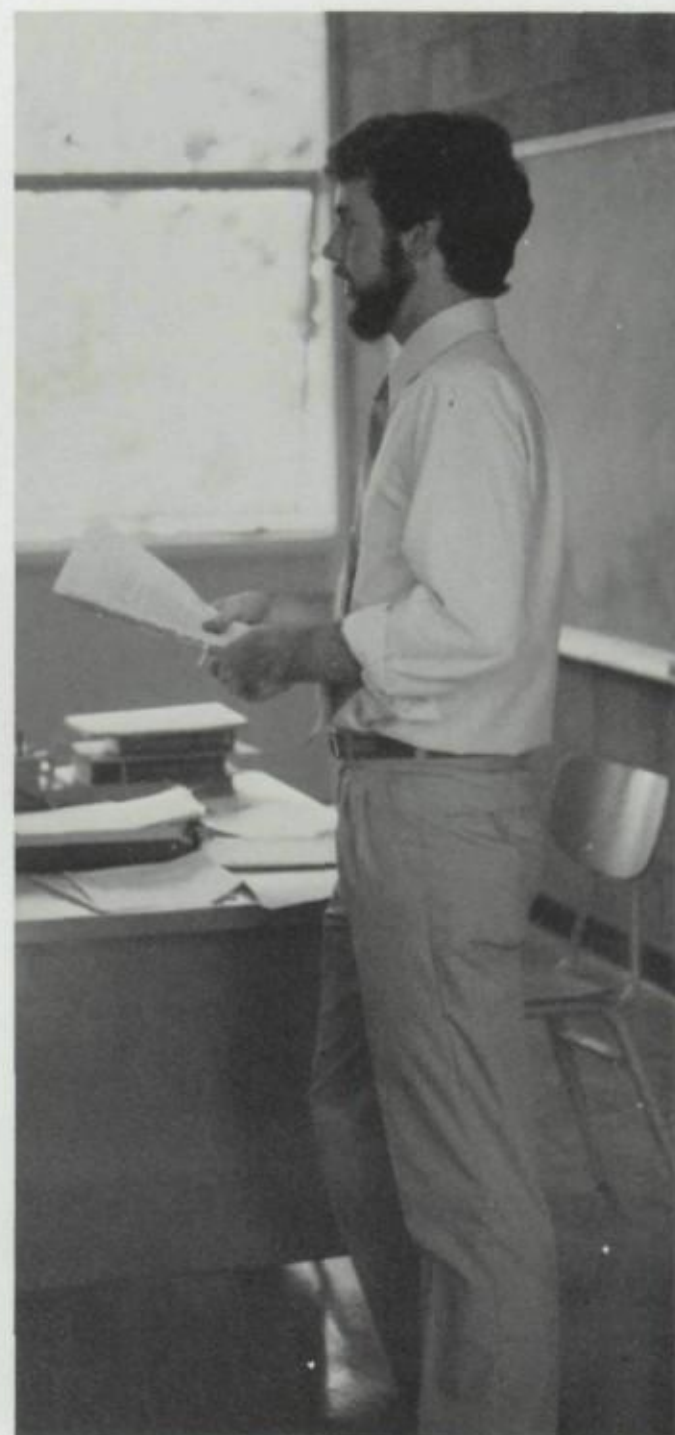

In one of his religion classes, Mr. Richard Schuler takes time out to help make things clear. Mr. Schuler was a warm addition to the faculty.

In the sunshine Mr. Paul Linn explains the fundamentals of math. Holding classes outside was a change all the students looked forward to and definitely liked.

New Additions

Attentively looking on as Mr. Paul Hedgeman demonstrates the correct way to examine the flasks are Freshman Jodi Sample and Danielle Robtge. Many freshmen look forward to lab experiments.

Student-teacher relationships have undergone much change. With the addition of six new teachers, the faculty was able to break the stereotype that teachers are cold, heartless, and unreal people, by their optimistic smiles and compassionate ways. Five of the six new teachers were male. When asked why he decided to teach at Alverno Mr. Brian Riley good-naturedly replied, "I wanted a change of pace." Many of the girls liked having more male teachers to add more spice to the school. Monica Dolan said, "Its nice to see male teachers rather than the customary females." ☸

Learning a new 50's step from Mrs. Mary McCullough is Senior Maggie Dolan. Having lunch on the terrace was a new activity by the Student Council.

"Don't you have lunch duty Chris?" asks Mrs. Lana Craig jokingly. This year the teachers took on a new responsibility of lunch duty.

Mrs. Denise Yagel shows her class the correct way to accuse someone of being late. The students enjoyed Mrs. Yagel's sense of humor.

Doing Their Thing

Mrs. Denise Yagel was ecstatic that she was picked among the students in a recent survey as a favorite teacher who deserves recognition. This is Mrs. Yagel's third year on the faculty. Teaching is what Mrs. Yagel always wanted to do even though some of her friends were against it. One main reason why she became a teacher was that she believed that "Someone has to care about people!" When asked about the relationship between the students and the faculty, she replied that it really depends on the teacher and what he/she is like. Here at Alverno the faculty really appreciates the openness and respect given to them by the students. She also believes that a lot of the faculty members do care about the students.

"What?! Eating an entire bag of Cheetos . . . on the terrace?!" Mrs. Lana Craig was very concerned with every girl's nutritional balance.

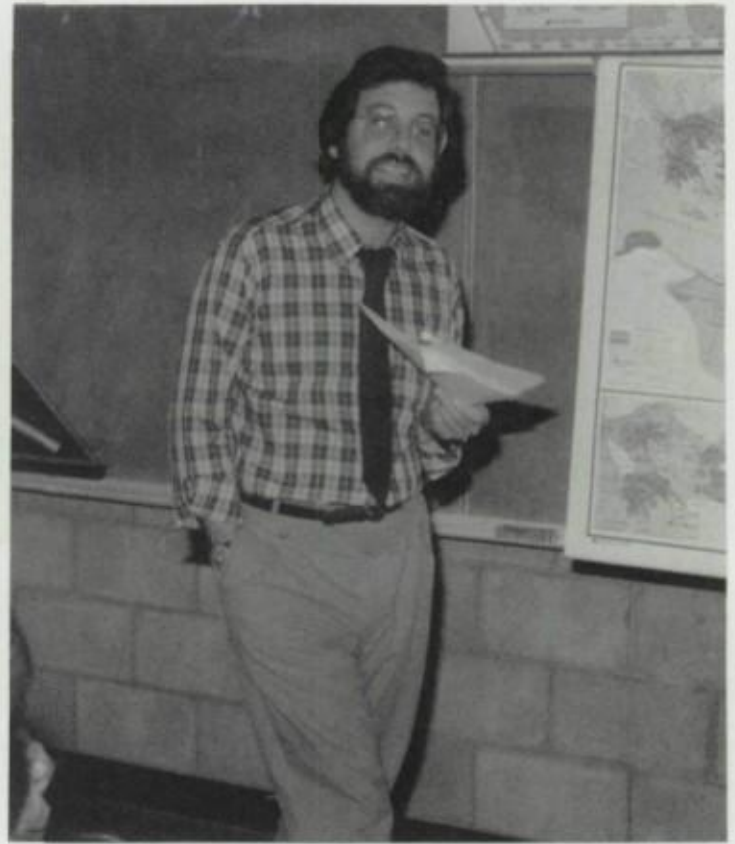

Reading one of her student's essays is Mrs. Denise Yagel. Mrs. Yagel was picked by the students as a favorite teacher who deserves special recognition.

Communion is distributed to Ms. Judy Wilber by Mr. Christopher Murphy during the opening mass. Teachers played a big part in helping with the school's masses.

Enthusiastically, Mr. Bruce Freidman takes on the challenge of teaching history. Mr. Freidman enjoyed his new job here.

After the race, Mr. Paul Linn, Senior Fiona Moorehead, and Mr. Stephen Bailey, take time out to rest. This year's annual walk-a-thon was a big success, raising about $6,000.

The daily life of Mrs. Ginny Harris, answering phones, writing down messages, and hearing excuses is shown here. No matter how she feels, we can always count on her smiling face.

"Oh, Mrs. Harris, my car wouldn't start. You see Mr. Harris it happened like this . . ." This is just one reason Mrs. Ginny Harris gets from girls who are late coming to school.

"Mrs. Harris can you make 10 copies of this? Mrs. Harris can you page Cathy to the office? Mrs. Harris do you have any tape?" But does Mrs. Harris ever complain? No, of course not! She loves working and she loves the girls. We would like to take this opportunity to thank you for every thing. ☺☺

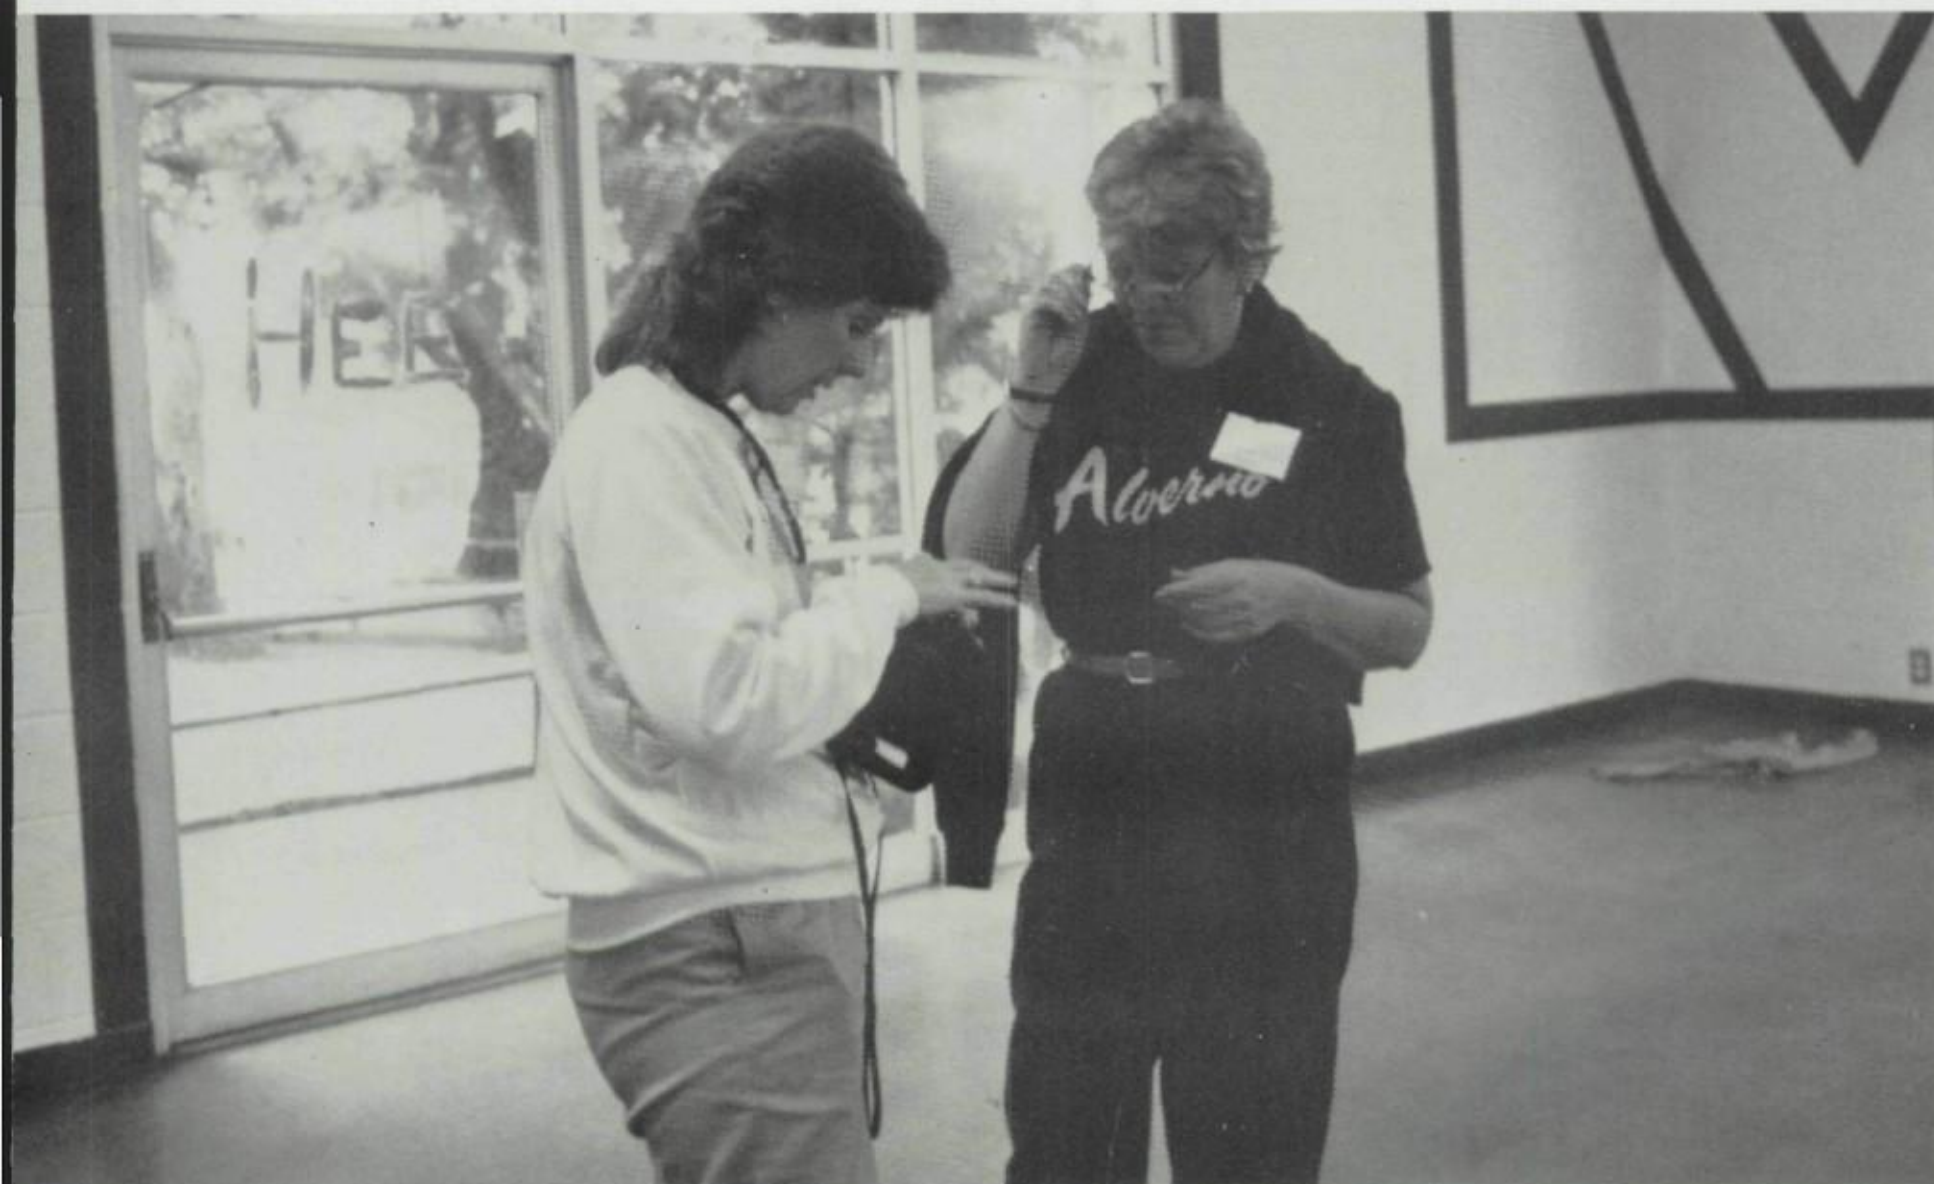

Flipping through a book to see whether or not it is suitable for our library is Mr. Jon-Patrick Pederson.

With a hectic schedule, Mrs. Mary McCullough seems to have time to share a joke. Mrs. McCullough was Assistant Principal in charge of Activities.

Overlooking Mrs. Mary McCullough's expertise in handling a camera, is Principal Dr. Elizabeth Broome. Enthusiasm towards school activities was a key to their success.

Always having an answer is Mrs. Gilda Martin, who in one way or another can always relieve a burden from someone's day.

Professional skills are being put to use in the classroom as Ms. Carol Laderer takes part in a classroom discussion. Ms. Laderer is also Assistant Principal of Academics

It All Adds Up

Religion

The Religion department basically stayed the same, but there were new teachers. Ms. Judy Wilber, who is in charge of Campus Ministry, could also be seen in room 108A teaching Relating. In room 108B a new male teacher, Mr. Richard Schuler, took over teaching Old Testament and Faith and Belief. Ms. Jean Bidwell returned and taught Old Testament to the freshmen. The two other returning teachers were Sister Barbara Mullen and Mr. Christopher Murphy. ☸☸

Math

" $a+b$ " is greater than $c+d$? Stop! I don't understand! What are a , b , c , & d ?" Many of the advanced math students went through this experience sometime during their math studies.

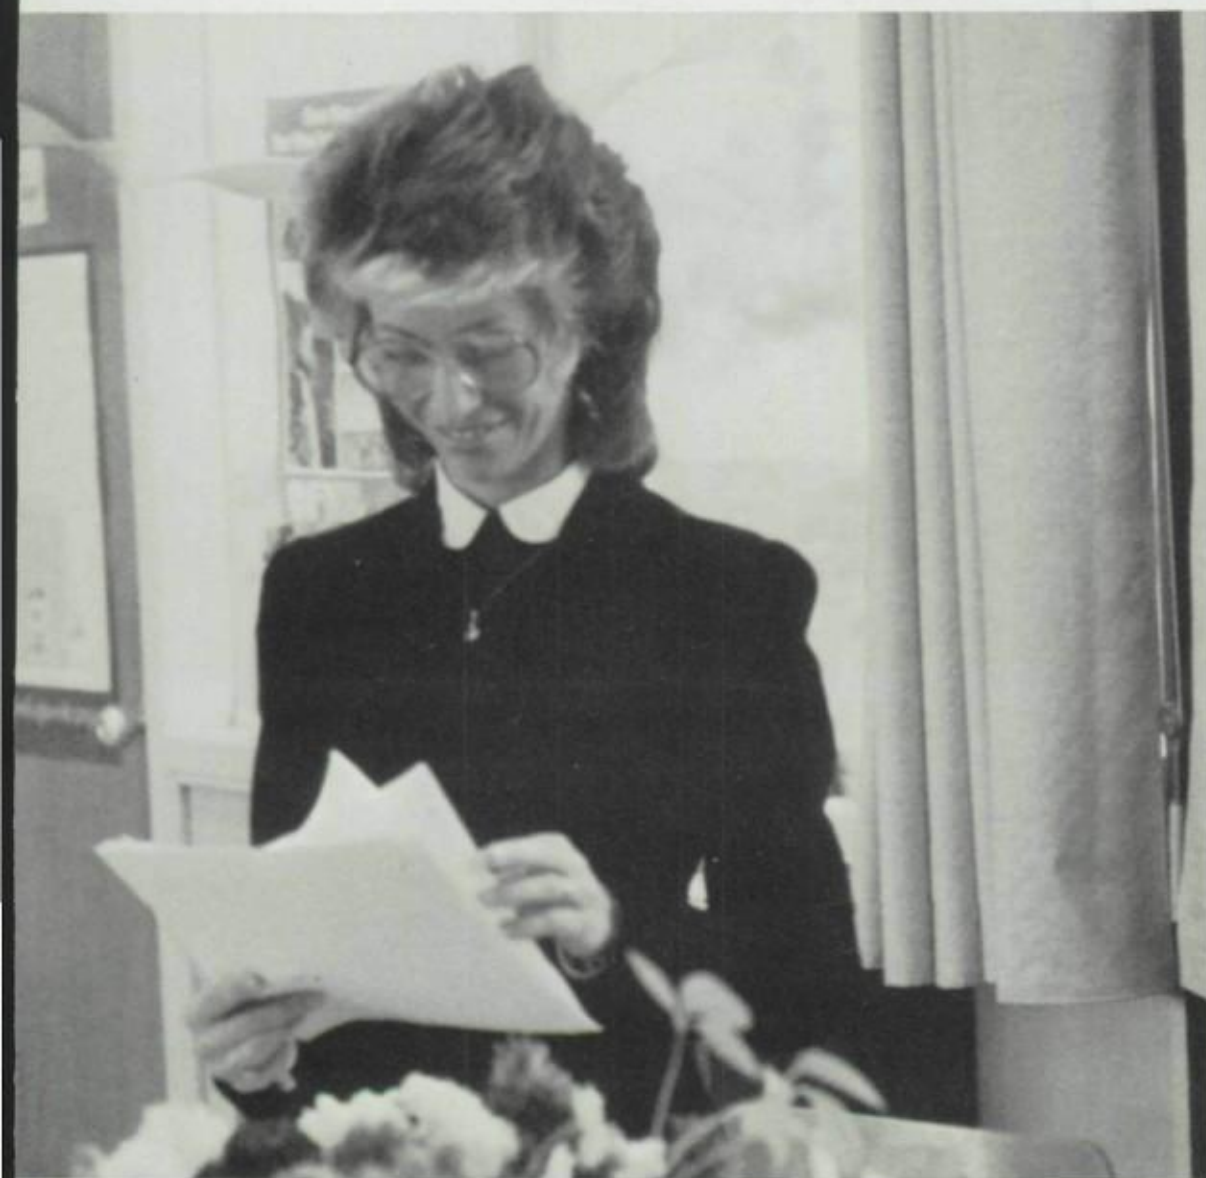

Math Analysis, Algebra, Computer Programming and Geometry were taught by Mr. Paul Linn who tried to make math more comfortable for the students. Mrs. Barbara Zafonte returned with her high spirits and taught Algebra I and II. Ms. Paula Bush once again took on teaching sophomores Geometry. ☸☸

Mr. Richard Schuler confronts one of his freshmen with her serious problem about sticking bubble gum under the desks. With the freedom of chewing gum came the occasional bubbles bursting in class. Some teachers solved this problem by not allowing it.

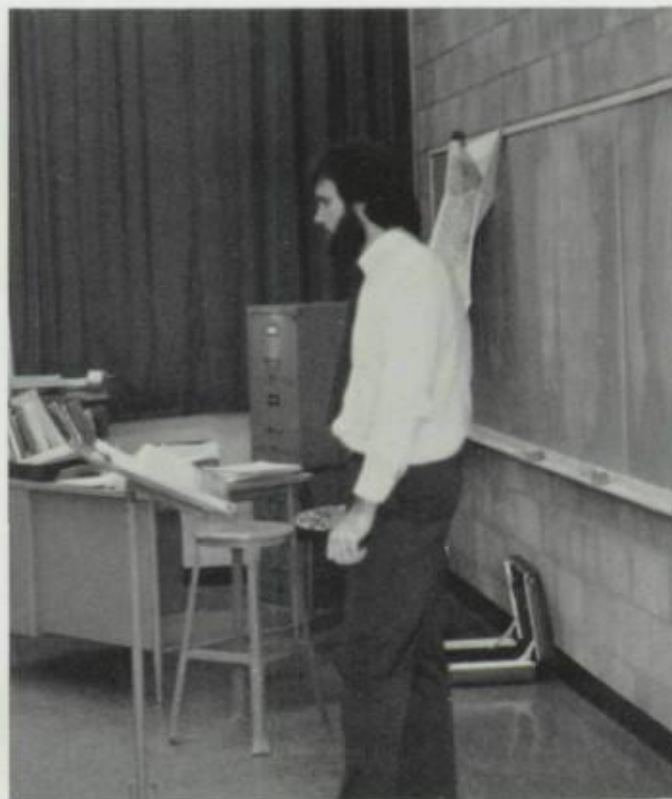

"Now the next time a student gets out of hand just threaten to smack their face," jokes Mr. Paul Hedgeman to Ms. Paula Bush.

Quickly looking through the tests to see how hard she'd made them is Mrs. Lana Craig. Mrs. Craig's tests were always challenging.

"O.K. What's the matter in the back of the room?" asks Mr. Christopher Murphy at the end of an exhausting day. With the fifty minute classes it was hard to keep one's patience.

Foreign Language

Learning a foreign language is essential for the future. The students have the choice of learning either Spanish or French. In both classes the students not only study the vocabulary and verb tenses, they study the culture of the country to get a sense of belonging. Besides learning the language the girls were able to experience the culture. Trips to Spain, England and France were organized for any student who was interested in furthering her knowledge of the language. The one problem with the foreign language department was the student-teacher ratio. The three teachers were Mrs. Lana Craig, Mrs. Virginia Winchester and Ms. Linda Reffner. ☺☺

Science

In today's society, the field of Science is becoming wider and wider, ranging from Animal Husbandry to Nuclear Technology. As we know, our Science Department is somewhat limited. The classes offered here were Chemistry, Biology, Physiology, Psychology and Physics. Dr. Gary Cromwell and Mr. Paul Hedgeman shared the responsibility of teaching Biology. Mr. Hedgeman also taught Physiology to mostly Juniors and Seniors who wanted to take advanced Science. Chemistry was also offered to all those who were courageous, and fascinated by the world of atoms. The class was taught by Ms. Paula Bush. ☺☺

A very confused Ms. Jean Bidwell, scratches her head hoping it would inspire some new ideas for a spread. Besides teaching Old Testament, Ms. Jean Bidwell took on the job of Yearbook advisor. She quickly found out that Yearbook is much harder than she thought.

Business

Mrs. Nancy Hamilton took complete charge of the Business Department. The Business department consisted of Accounting A & B and Typing A, B, C, D. In accounting the students learned how to write checks, post journals, balance their debts and credits etc. In typing they learned the keyboards then advanced into typing formal business letters to working on their own. Many students found out rather early in high school that, in order to type those term papers you need typing skills. ☺☺

PE

A new curriculum in the PE department has been established and has worked like clockwork throughout the year. The addition of Ms. Robyn Cooke has been much appreciated this year. The heavy workload that was once Ms. Geri Fuchigami's responsibility, has been cut, in order for Ms. Fuchigami's to expand the dance program. Many freshman describe the duo teacher arrangement as being "wonderful". Several spoke of the challenge of going from volleyball to aerobics as thrilling. ☺☺

Trying to solve a typing problem for Freshman Jackie Robles is Mrs. Nancy Hamilton.

Work — Work — Work

English

The English Department added many new classes to its department. One new English class consisted of fourteen Seniors and the Principal, Dr. Elizabeth Broome. The course title of this class was Senior Seminar. The main ideas of the class was to get the girls to write good ideas and reflective papers and to seminar together.

Other classes that were added to the department were Advanced Composition and Drama and Poetry taught by Mrs. Mary McCullough, Ms. Carol Laderer and Ms. Carla Tomaso. ☺☺

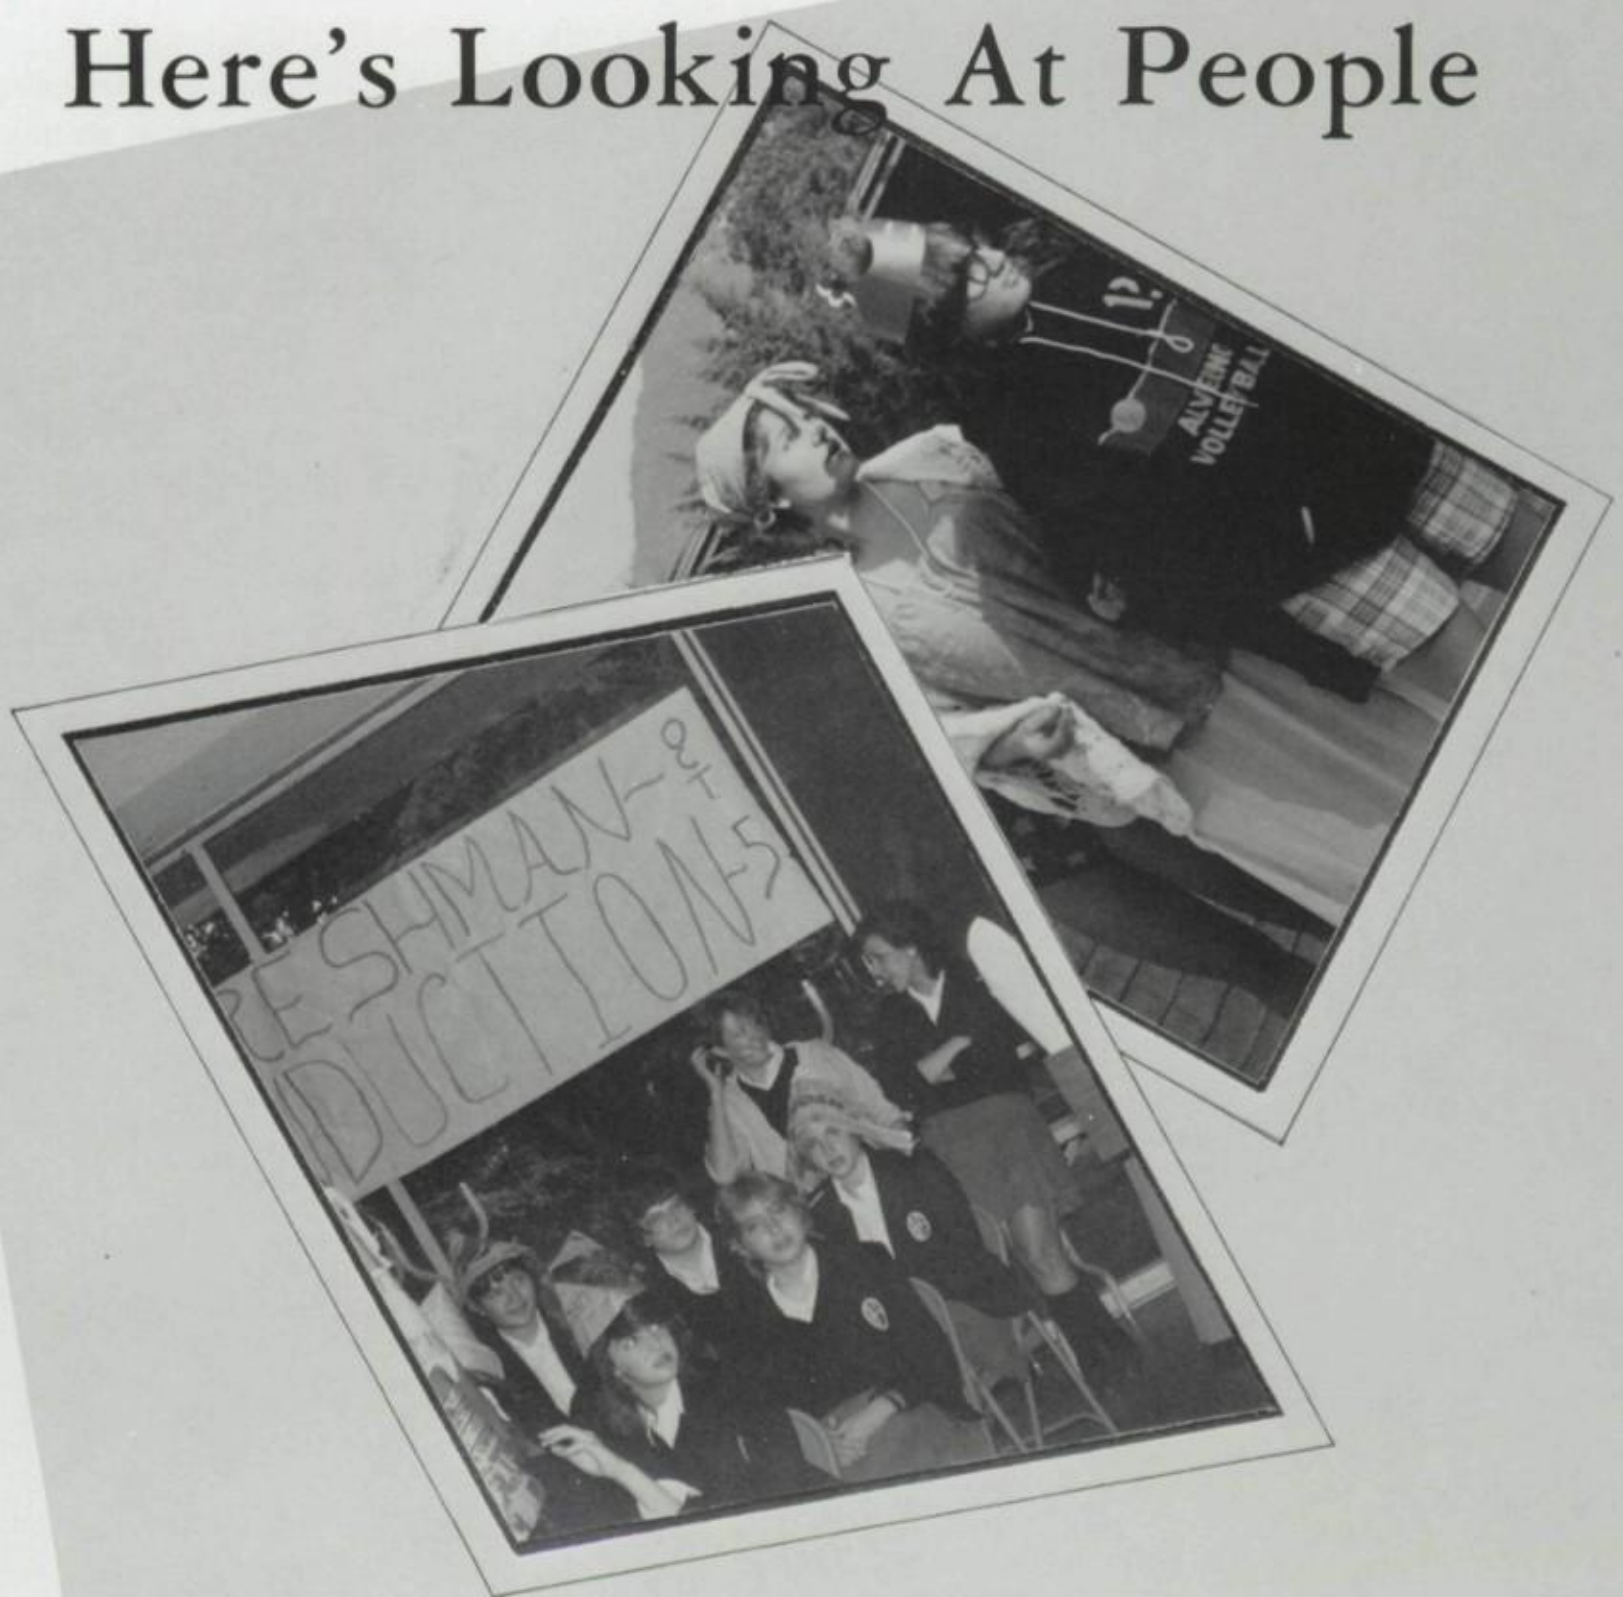

Social Science

American Government, European History and International Relations were taught by one talented teacher Mr. Bruce Friedman. Many students had a hard time realizing the importance of philosophy in Government, but eventually Mr. Friedman convinced the students that to understand government you need to understand the basics of Plato and Aristotle. Other classes that were taught were U.S. History I and II which were taught by the department head, Mr. Stephen Bailey. ☺☺

Pensive thought overcomes Mr. Stephen Bailey as he wonders how to answer an impromptu question. Mr. Bailey taught U.S. History, English and AP English.

Here's Looking At People

Although many people make up Alverno, each girl's individuality is important. She takes her own talents and her unique style, adds them to the class, which in turn becomes a reflection of her personality. The girls unite to form a class that is proud, strong, and indicative of each student's character.

Not often does one experience a school quite as unique as ours. But what constitutes this "uniqueness"? True, the school is a reflection of its students — and each class can be said to have a "mind of their own." Thus, the purpose of this yearbook: to seek "You want me to do what!?" asks Sophomore Elisa Caubet. Elisa was one of the many who showed their spirit on 50's day.

out that characteristic, that one special trait, so different from all the rest, which makes each class, and every girl within it, a valuable piece to the puzzle.

Upon first glance, the campus may appear a sea of girls, sharply dressed in their grey skirts and white button-downs. It's not until we get beyond such "appearances," however, that the true identity of this school begins to show itself, and it is upon what creates this identity that we would like to focus the proverbial "spotlight."

Throughout "Here's Looking At People," we are going to attempt to capture the awakening of the freshmen, the untamed spirit of the sophomores, the creative beauty of the juniors, and the strikingly personable senior class. ☺☺

Looking through her papers in order to find her handy dandy notebook is Senior and ASB Secretary, Tonya Foote. Tonya had the responsibility of taking accurate notes of every student council meeting.

"How many seeds are in here?" wonders Stephanie Brkich while Lynn Huettis submit their guesses for a free chance to win. This contest was only one of the many student council sponsored events that were held throughout the year.

Another Great Year

Stand Up and Be Counted

Behind every great class are people who really care and are pushing for it. This statement is certainly true of the Senior class of 1984. This year, as in the past, this class has managed to elect officers who work hard, and despite all odds, fight for what they believe in.

This year, leading the "pack" was Diane Erb as Senior Class President with Stephanie Nakagawa backing her up as Vice President. Equally as important and not to be forgotten were Maggie Dolan, Senior Class Secretary and Theresa Barcelos as Treasurer.

These four managed to cut through the red tape and produce the following: off-campus lunch on Tues. and Thurs. with free dress every second Tues. of each month, front row seating at assemblies, and a five minute "headstart" in the lunch line as privileges for the class of 1984. These four girls throughout the year helped keep up class morale and hopes. Every now and then people had a complaint or two, in the end, all complaints turned to compliments and praise. It may not have been the most glamorous job anyone could have taken on, but in retrospect, we can all agree that they did a heck of a job. ☺

Filled with animation, ready to face any day, Sarah Van Wickle informs the student body of an upcoming event. Each day, crazy Sarah delivered the announcements while her contagious cheer brought smiles to all.

Seemingly relaxed and carefree, Senior class officers Diane Erb, Theresa Barcelos, Maggie Dolan and Stephanie Nakagawa pose for this shot. Despite their busy schedules these officers were continually on the ball taking care of senior issues.

Have a TAB and a smile! Sr. class pres. Diane Erb faithfully attended activities throughout the year, and was a cheerful inspiration to all.

People Who Count

A Warm Thanx

Although some people on campus see seniors as big people who push the underclassmen around, even if no one else realizes it, there is a group of very special people on campus who have grown dear to us this year. Our little sisters began the year confused, asking for our help in finding classrooms, while our understanding of their situation explained what the "P.E." room was. We teased them about the pond, and scared as they were, they hoped for and counted on our protection. As newcomers here they were highly influential, and hopefully we have aided in setting them on the right paths.

As the year progressed, these people reminded us that there was more to life than just graduation and college, brought us away from the overwhelming "real world" and in many cases acted as a link to sanity and the beauty of life.

The year is over, and throughout it all — Induction to Graduation — our little sisters have stood by us and us by them. Together we have met the struggles of a time in our lives where change takes place, but never could we have done without you. What we're really trying to say is: thank you little sisters, for all you've done. Good luck in your future . . . may you reach for the stars and touch the moon!

Enthusiastic Editor

"Say Cheese"

There are many people at Alverno who contribute willingly to certain activities. This year's Yearbook Editor, Liz Oberreiter, is one such person. Since freshman year, Liz has helped whenever needed and has been there with her "trusty camera". One word that describes her most is dedicated. Senior Jenny Berkley stated, "Liz has been dedicated to our school and especially to our class, for as long as I can remember. She's a very special person and I'm glad she's finally getting the recognition for all the work she's done for us. I'll always remember Liz for the spirit and encouragement she gave all of us, and for the special friend she's been."

When asked what they think of Liz Oberreiter, people comment about her musical ability, and her avid devotion to UCLA. No matter how they are asked, almost every person on campus knows who you are talking about when you mention the girl with the camera.

Not only has Liz helped out at dances and other school sponsored activities, she also has been a great help to the faculty at Alverno. Mrs. Denise Yagel commented on her sense of humor, and her ability to handle certain situations. "She's the most conscientious person I've ever met in my whole life, what else can I say?" was one way that Mrs. Yagel put it.

Mrs. Lana Craig believes that she is extremely dependable, considerate of others, and always willing to lend a helping hand. "She's the first person I think of when I need help." ☺

Looking Ahead

Pursuing A Career

For every member of the senior class there is a dream. Although they may differ greatly, each and every one is just as important as any other. Some girls have high aspirations and hope to continue on in school in order to attain their college degree, and some aspire towards a happy home or a well paying job. One must not forget that these are as important as any other goal.

In a class such as this, with many different opinions, no opinion is ever wrong. Many girls have chosen to take on a college. Some of the favorites include UCLA, USC, Loyola Marymount, and some of the Cal State schools. There are also a large variety of majors, including pre-law and pre-med.

Some girls plan on settling down and raising a family. This as some people may not realize, is as hard a job as a doctor or lawyer. Even though no schooling is required, it can take a lot of time and effort out of anyone.

There are many fields that are not mentioned here which are just as important. No matter what the choice for the future is, one thing is for sure, every member of the class of 1984 will give it their all. ☺

Friends Forever

A Four Year Process

Many friendships have blossomed throughout our four years at Alverno. We remember Freshman year when we were new and we began friendships out of necessity. Nevertheless, we realized that they were more than just people to be with at school, but people that shared common interests. Then, all of a sudden, these "people" became friends, and as the years passed, we became stronger, closer and shared more with them. Soon we found that some friends thought more like us than others; these we titled our best friends and shared with them our innermost thoughts, secrets and dreams. Now in our senior year we are forced to say goodbye to many of these friends, but they will always have a special place in our hearts. ☺☺

A Deeper Devotion

Too Good To Be True

One person who has not received the recognition she deserves is Denise Tinker. Throughout her four years at Alverno Denise has always been willing to help and now in her senior year has become one of the commissioners of activities in order to continue this tradition.

Denise has the respect of her classmates and peers as well as the faculty. Senior Liz Joyce believes, "Denise's smile can cheer you up when you're in a bad mood. It seems like she is always involved in something but she always makes time to talk to you." All girls believe that Denise has deserved recognition and are glad that she is finally getting praise for all she's done.

In the same way, many teachers feel that she merits commendation also. Mrs. Denise Yagel has commented on her maturity and that no matter what her problems, she always manages to pull through. Ms. Carla Tomaso described her as sophisticated and chic and noted her ability to follow through with her promises.

"She brought a sense of purpose to activities." She has definitely been a friend to the entire class.

To have a good friend is the purest of all God's gifts for it is a love that has no exchange of payment. It isn't inherited as with a family. It isn't compelling as with a child, and it has no means of physical pleasure as with a mate. It is therefore an indescribable bond that brings with it a far deeper devotion than all the others." Time For Teachers

When We're Gone

This year, as in the past three, the class of '84 has many teachers to thank for their triumphs. When these triumphs have occurred we often neglected to thank them and now we are taking the opportunity to do so. This thank you isn't to be taken lightly but sincerely and from the heart.

We would like to thank all the faculty who have taught us but also extend a special thanks to Mr. Paul Hedgeman, Sr. Barbara Mullen, Mrs.

Pat MacDonald, Mrs. Lana Craig, Mrs. Denise Yagel, Ms. Geri Fuchigami, Mr. Brian Riley, Ms. Jean Bidwell, and Mrs. Mary McCullough.

These teachers have stood out in our minds because of their contributions to our class. These contributions consisted of moral support, encouragement, hope, and acting as role models.

Jackie Pose stated, "I thought of them as friends, not just as teachers and at times a shoulder to lean on."

Elizabeth Oberreiter commented, "They cared about my goals for the future, and took time out to talk to me. Thanks!"

After we graduate we won't only miss our friends, but also our teachers, whom we consider friends.

Many sincere thanks to those who helped the class of 1984 not only graduate, but mature during these four years at Alverno High School. ☺

One And Only

Top Notch

Success is this:

to laugh often and to love much, to win the respect of intelligent persons and the affections of small children, to earn the approbation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of friends, to appreciate beauty, to find the best in everything to give one's self, to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch, or a redeemed social condition, to have played and laughed with enthusiasm and to have sung with exultation, to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived.

Thank you Sister Barbara for making this a very successful year from a much appreciative Senior class. We could not have done it without you.

In Search Of

Seniors

"A senior is, . . . Well, I just don't know what s senior is, I can't describe them, they're just Seniors!"

This was the answer that most people gave when asked what a senior is. Is a Senior that difficult to describe? Are Seniors an enigma? No.

Some people came up with some really good definitions, for example:

A Senior Is . . .

. . . faced with decisions. Senior Denise Tinker

. . . a friend who is always there for you. Sophomore Katya Grace

. . . God's favorite creation. Senior Diane Erb

. . . a big sister. Freshman Julie Burke

. . . a subhuman superior being. Junior Lisa Abbett

. . . irresistible. Mr. Christopher Murphy

. . . living proof of life after death. Anonymous

. . . the best you can be, it is being on top, it is an experience to remember. Senior Susan Emerson

. . . alive with the beautiful qualities of womanhood. Sr. Barbara Mullen

. . . a person who will help you when you need it, and they always have a nice smile to brighten your day. Freshman Ruby Vera

. . . a perfect example of a three dimensional figure: they reflect the past, mirror the present, and envision the future. Ms. Jean Bidwell

. . . a friend we can relate to because she realizes all the obstacles we have to conquer in order to become juniors and then seiors ourselves. Sophomores Jen Larson and Sheli Parent

Many will agree with these and some may disagree but whatever the definition, it is apparent that many people have different ideas of what a senior is. ☺☺

JUNIORS

Take Us To The Top

The graduating class of 1985 is made up of many individuals. They are being led through their Junior year by four spirited representatives: (President) Monique Pijanowski, (Vice-President) Patricia Mudnich, (Secretary) Nancy Sumner, and (Treasurer) Catherine Keller. Together they are hoping to initiate unity and lasting friendships that are truly straight from the heart. When asked to define their class, they responded "spirited" and "happening".

The officers all agreed that the main reason they ran for their position was to get involved. All agreed that the year ahead of them would be a challenging and exciting one. They hoped that each girl in the class would think more of themselves as the year progressed and as they prepared for their Senior year. Thanks to their efforts and determination the hardworking Junior class officers were able to achieve their goals. ☺☺

The Junior class officers could often be found with each other. They worked hard together, but more importantly all contributed, forming a special friendship.

She's on the Run

Being a class moderator is anything but an easy job. In fact, most of the time it's very challenging and time consuming. The graduating class of 1985 is being led through the year by Mrs. Lana Craig, who has been a junior class moderator for four years.

One of the most rewarding benefits of being a class moderator is being able to see the results of such hard work and effort. Being an exclusive activity of the junior class, Mrs. Lana Craig is the only moderator on campus who is able to experience the thrill of seeing a ring ceremony go over well, as this year's did.

Not Enough Time On Her Hands

Not having enough time on her hands was Junior Jodi McWhirter. Jodi was voted by her classmates as the Junior most active outside of school. Her hobbies include square dancing, biking, and hiking at Upper Volta. This variety of interests takes up most of her time. Jodi admitted that she's busy most of the time, but she loves what she's doing and wouldn't trade it for anything.

With her obviously hectic schedule, Jodi always has time for her friends. When Leesa Caballero and Anne Chavez were asked to describe Jodi in a word, they responded that they couldn't, but when they weren't confined to a word, the list went on and on. Their response was as follows: "Jodi is the type of person who likes everyone and is liked by everyone. She puts her friends before herself, no matter what. She's very active outside of school, but if ever a friend was in need of someone to talk to, Jodi would be there in a minute."

When teacher Mr. Christopher Murphy was asked to describe Jodi in a few words, he responded, "Jodi has an effervescent and ebullient personality which enlivens her dyadic and group interactions and coalesces with her gregarious communication style."

After receiving her ring, Junior Jodi McWhirter is congratulated by Ms. Paula Bush. Many students developed strong student-teacher relationships.

Two Of A Kind

The class of 1985 is a unique one. They've not one, but two class members who excel when it comes to giving up something of themselves for the class. These two people are Monique Pijanowski and Patricia Mudnich. They were voted, by their classmates, as the one's who do the most for their class. Monique and Patricia led the class this year, as President and Vice-President. Together they have witnessed their class mature, while at the same time learned more about themselves. They feel that the class has the potential to do whatever they want. One of the many goals that they have set for the year is to recognize the individualities of each of the students, and incorporate them into the spirit of the school. During the free-time she has, Monique enjoys writing poetry and watching sunsets. Patricia enjoys spending time with her friends at Newport Beach.

When asked to comment on the growth of these two leaders, Ms. Jean Bidwell had this to say. "Having seen both Monique and Patricia throughout these past two years, I feel that I can safely say that there has been a "change". Both have been challenged in a variety of ways, and neither have stepped back from that challenge. I have a lot of faith in these two and the challenges will continue . . . May theirs be the strength and patience to continue as well." ☺☺

Together Patricia Mudnich and Monique Pijanowski went over their plans for the year. Under their guidance, it was a successful year for the Juniors.

Sophomores

"In one word . . . Jazzed!"

not to many bad times. A year ago today (May 29) you and

This year's sophomores elected Alexia Prokop, treasurer, Shelly Parent, secretary, Eileen Taaffe, vice-president and Monica Dolan, president. The sophomores trust these four girls with the authority given to them. When asked what they wanted to achieve, they all agreed on one idea, to promote spirit and unity. President Monica Dolan said with enthusiasm, "The freshman induction showed the unity and spirit of our class."

Each officer was asked if it was possible to describe the sophomore class in one word. Treasurer Alexia Prokop said quietly, "full of potential." Secretary Shelly Parent responded, "unique." Vice-President Eileen Taaffe answered with confidence, "amazing." President Monica Dolan said energetically, "our class in one word, . . . jazzed!"

This year's sophomore class officers were hard working and have achieved the goals they set for themselves with the spirit and unity of the class of '86 cheering them all the way.

Potential, Jazzed, Unique, Amazing, are how the class of '86 has been described by their own peers and elected officers. But by one of their teachers and class moderator, Mrs. Virginia Winchester, they are described as enthusiastic!

Mrs. Winchester mentioned, "I enjoy working with the sophomores. I met most of them as freshmen and now I am getting to know them better. They have a special energy which they share with me (whether they know it or not)."

Mrs. Winchester was sophomore class moderator last year and knows the work that is involved. She is willing to work hard and support the sophomores in all they want to achieve.

With the potential the sophomores possessed and Mrs. Winchester's hard work, the class of '86 had a memorable year.

The sophomores aren't really considered underclassmen, at least not among themselves. They are all unique in their own way, but when asked what interested them outside school they came up with a list of favorites:

Eating Place:

Del Taco

Movie Star:

Eddie Murphy

Sports Star:

Steve Sax

Magazine:

Gentlemen's Quarterly

Weekend Hang-out:

Parties; Susan Mora's Van

Singing Group:

Michael Jackson

Movie:

Risky Business

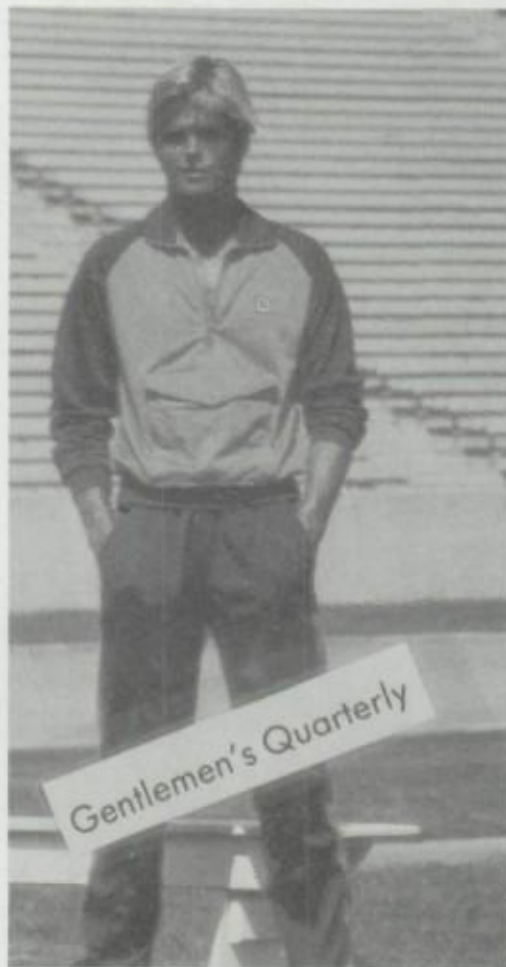

Car:

Even though there are no men at Alverno that doesn't mean that guys are the farthest thought from our minds. The sophomores proved what was on their minds when Gentlemen's Quarterly won as the magazine they read the most.

Music always can add a spice to life. The sound that pleased the ears of the sophomores was that of Michael Jackson.

Tammy Militello shows her support of Alverno as a member of the Student Council and Commissioner of New Student Orientation. Not only is she involved within her school but takes an active part in her community as a candy striper at the Arcadia Methodist Hospital.

Tammy is up for the Hugh O'Brian Leadership Conference Award for the Sophomore with outstanding leadership. She submitted an essay to the conference and can go on to win the state and national levels in the competition.

When Mrs. McCullough was asked what she thought of Tammy, she replied, "Tammy's most admirable quality is her enthusiasm to help, but always with a smile on her face." ☺☺

Most people would assume that Monica Dolan was elected by her peers, for the person who contributes the most to her class, simply because she was Sophomore Class President. It was not only for this reason that she was chosen, it was for many more. Monica is friendly to everyone and is always willing to help, whether it be with Student Council or just one of her friends. Monica was described by one of her classmates, Susan Mora, as being "friendly to everyone. Monica is openminded to all types of people. She makes you feel comfortable and welcomed." Diane Erb, Senior Class President, who comes in contact with Monica everyday during Leadership class and Student Council activities, praises her for her attributes. "Monica has a good head on her shoulders, along with a strong will, a great personality, and original ideas. She is definitely an asset to Student Council."

Monica stands out in the Sophomore Class because she is outspoken in voicing her opinions. She feels that the Sophomores have great ambitions and wants to help them as much as possible to achieve all they can. Monica has the talent and the will to succeed in any aspect of her life. ☺☺

With all their enthusiasm and new ideas the Freshmen Class officers of 1984, are ready for their first year of high school. This years officers were Roberta Nigro (President); Jenny Choi (Vice-President); Linda Morles (Secretary) and Kendra Ferdersen (Treasurer). The new officers held endless meetings to decide what steps they would take for their class. One of the major tasks that they accomplished and were very proud about was the Senior Tribute dinner. This dinner was very special, it was considered a Thank-You dinner to all the Seniors who were their big sisters. Freshmen Tracy Lukes agrees, "My Big Sister, Lisa Pearson has helped make my first year of high school very Special. Speaking for myself and my class, Thank-You big sister's for being there." ☺☺

She's On The Move

Every year each class has a moderator who provides them with determination, comfort and helps the class accomplish their duties as a whole. This year's freshman class moderator is Mrs. Denise Yagel. Although she returns for the third year as freshman moderator, she starts fresh with the class of 1987. When Mrs. Yagel was asked how she liked her position, she stated enthusiastically, "The girls are terrific! Right now because of the transition from eighth grade to ninth many girls experience feelings of being alone and confused. But, with time and little determination and strength they will form friendships, unite as a class, and together stand tall." ☺

Besides all of the clubs she is involved in, she still finds time to be the Freshmen Class President. When asked what she liked about being class President she replied, "I like to do things as much as I can, to make my class a better one and happier one, and when my classmates are happy, then I'm happy." ☺☺

Here's A Look At Sports

Listen aboardoo, if

At every school the sports program and all of those involved in it help create a hopeful and spirited atmosphere for the school. Sports help develop special talents and abilities of certain players while they add to the spirit of the rest of the school.

Many players participate for different reasons: some just for fun and others in order to pursue a career.

"I got it, I got it!" yells Denise Ward as she volleys the ball. This was Denise's second year on volleyball.

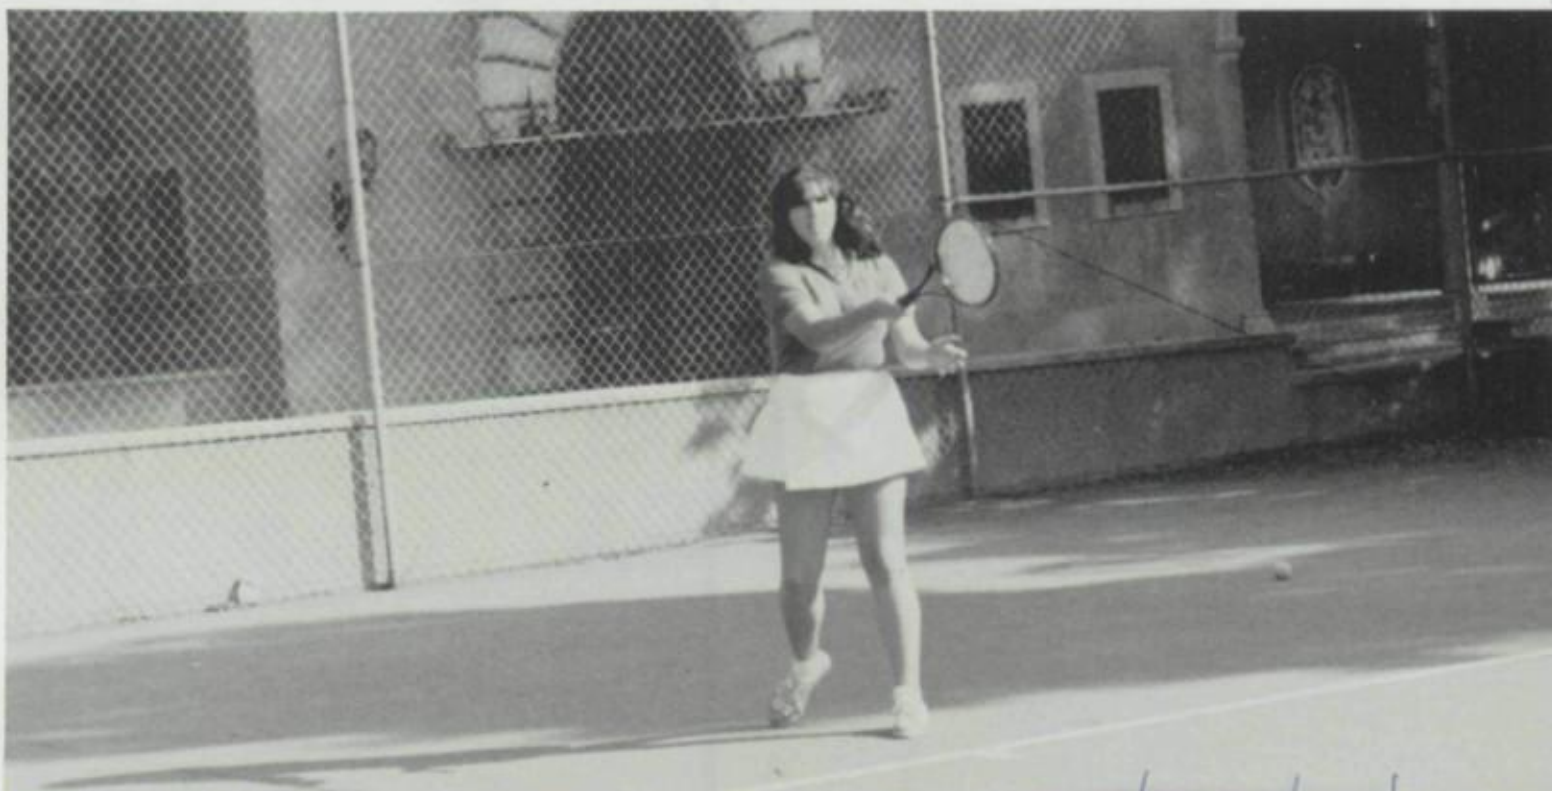

Athletics Commissioner Sarah Alcorn who plans to major in Physical Education stated "I plan to use what I learned here from Ms. Fuchigami to help me reach my goals. I would like to be able to relate to people the same way that I have seen others do."

At Alverno the players and coaches are not the only important part of sports; the spectators or "onlookers" also play a major part. Sports also help all involved learn a valuable lesson in life. How to play with good sportsmanship is learned. They develop people's personalities as well as their physical ability.

... So keep your eye on the players and we'll keep our eyes on you!!

During break Sarah Alcorn and Liz Joyce discuss plans for the volleyball team. As Commissioner of Athletics, Sarah organized most team related activities.

"And there she goes!" Senior Jackie Pose sends the ball flying back at her opponent. The tennis team this year took on many new players.

Beat It

This year's Varsity and Junior Varsity Volleyball teams were unique. Many years have passed since one coach has taken on the responsibility of both teams. That coach's name is Laurianne Williams. This was Laurianne's first time coaching volleyball here at Alverno. She showed the team her techniques and hoped that would bring them to a victorious season. Both teams put all their efforts into their games but, unfortunately, lost to their opponents.

Both the Volleyball teams did the best they could in the short time they had to practice. Although they were strong in their comebacks, they unfortunately led to a defeated season. ☹☹

With all their strength Senior Stephanie Nakagawa and Sophomore Becky Swanson were able to block the spike.

Enthusiastically coming in for Susie Underbrink and Becky Swanson are Tami Taylor and Denise Ward.

Blocking the ball successfully is Dominica Lo Cascio No. 11. This was Dominica's first year participating on the Volleyball team.

Tennis

"See, look how good they are! I taught them how to play," stated Mr. Paul Hedgemen. This year Mr. Hedgemen took over coaching the tennis team.

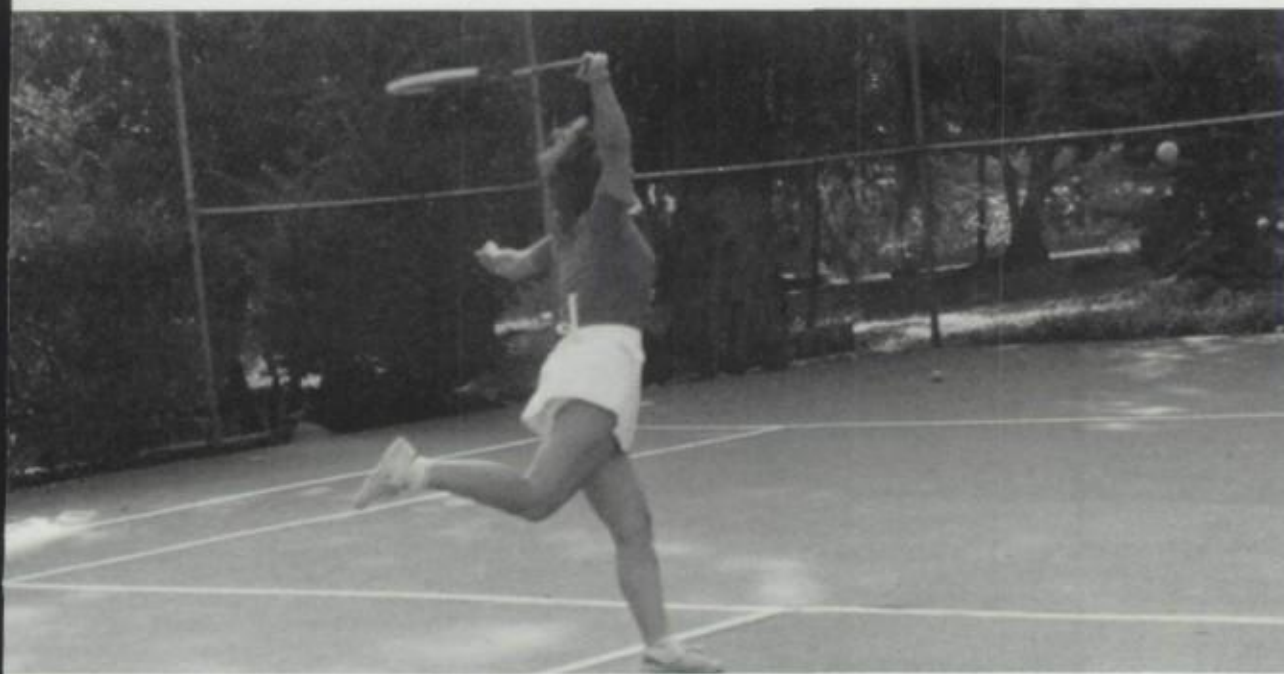

Keeping her eye on the ball and by following her swing, Diane Erb managed to win the set.

Keeping in the Swing

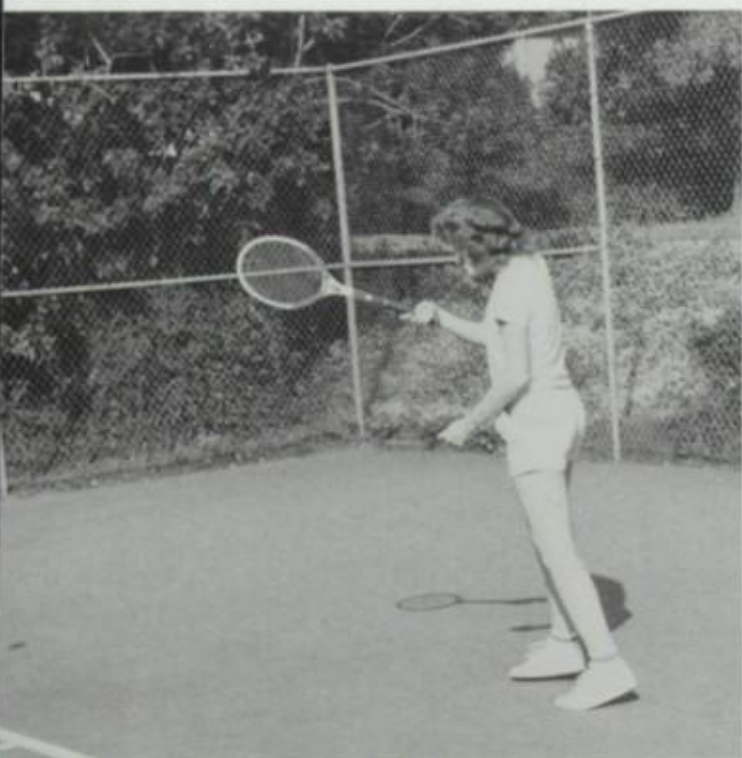

Displaying some of her ballet talents is Senior Diane Erb. On the court the players were able to express their skills.

Mr. Paul Hedgemen was the head coach for this year's tennis team. Through the season Mr. Hedgemen wanted the girls to learn how to enjoy playing tennis while developing a competitive spirit. This was very important to Mr. Hedgemen because he wanted the girls to look forward to the practices instead of making up excuses for not going. He believed that the more the girls practiced, the better chance they had to better their game. This year's tennis team did have their problems. Not enough players was one of the reasons why the team record was not so good. The tennis team also had to forfeit a lot of their games because they were short-handed. Julie Murphy stated, "I am looking forward to a great year next year." ☺☺

"Concentrate, got to concentrate," Maureen Murphy reminds herself. Complete concentration was essential while playing tennis.

By tilting her racket Diane Erb was able to drop the ball softly over the net.

With all her strength, Junior Sheli Wheeler successfully hits the ball over the net. This was Sheli's first year on the tennis team.

Basketball

"So Stephanie, who do you think is going to get the rebound," asks Domenica Lo Cascio. "I don't know, it's up for grabs right now," comments Stephanie Nakagawa. Rebounding was an essential element for winning very close games.

"For the last time, you are not allowed to walk with the ball," exclaims Ms. Geri Fuchigami at practice. For a change both the J.V. and Varsity Basketball teams practiced together. Many members on the team agreed that with both teams practicing together they were more united but there was still a distinction between them. Ms. Geri Fuchigami was the coach for the J.V. team and Ms. Laurie Williams coached the Varsity team. Both teams managed to pull together to overcome their difficulties . . . and there were many. Erin Hall believes that the teams are definitely improving. ☺☺

"Two against one," Sophomore Domenica Lo Cascio and Senior Kathleen McSweeney hold their grip on the ball as they wait for the whistle.

Keeping her eye on the ball and making sure that she hits it in the right spot is Senior Liz Joyce.

Pushing herself to always do her best and even a little more is Senior Liz Joyce. To be a good player one must first have the ability or skill to play, second to be full of spirit and thirdly, to know what is meant by teamwork. Once a player has these qualities they must learn how to develop these skills. The one person who falls into this category is definitely Liz Joyce. Ever since freshman year Liz has been a member of the Varsity Volleyball squad, an accomplishment which she only has achieved for the past four years. ☺☺

"A nice even swing," echoes through Senior Jackie Pose's head as she concentrates on her swing. This was Jackie's fourth yr. participating on the tennis team.

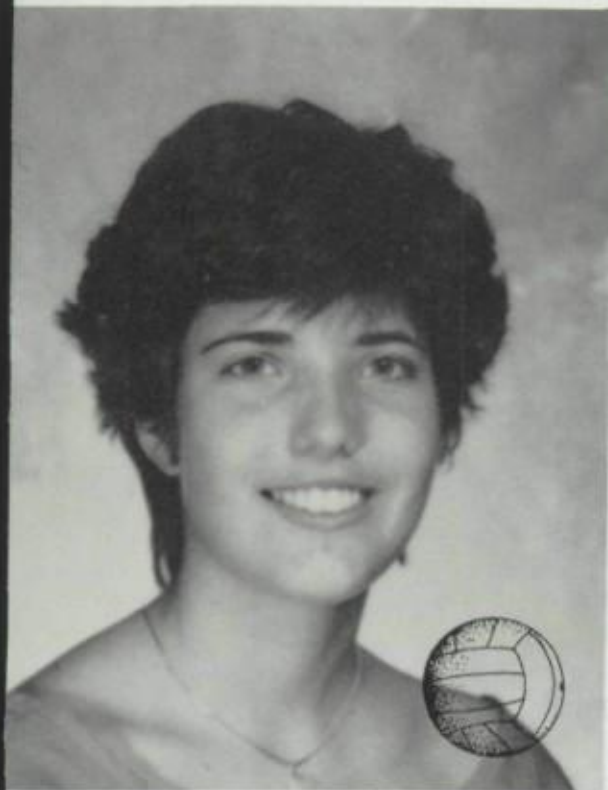

Demonstrating outstanding abilities in athletics and in academics is Senior Jackie Pose. Jackie participated on the tennis team for all of her four years. Besides just playing on the tennis team, Jackie also plays tennis and takes tennis lessons outside of school. Tennis isn't her only sport. For the past 3 yrs., she has been on community softball team and even coaches a softball team. Besides these accomplishments, Jackie excels in the academic field. She has been a member of CSF and NHS plus has a GPA of 3.8 and ranks 2 of her class. ☺☺

Stephanie Nakagawa, a Senior, has participated on the varsity basketball team for the past three years. Stephanie has also taken part in Volleyball (for 4 yrs.) and softball (for 3 yrs). As you can tell Stephanie has many athletic abilities. Ever since her freshman year she has been involved in at least 2 of the sports. Aside from being active in every sport, Steph is also Sr. Class Vice President. Steph played an important part in student council, forming new ideas for the school, keeping her class well informed and active. ☺☺

Alma Mater

Alma mater stands in glory
E'er to all the guiding light.
Tower of strength Alverno High
Pride of youth, e'er shining bright.

Alma mater we sing your praises,
May our lives enrich your name.
Through the years we shall remember
The ideals that you proclaim.

Mem'ries twine around your name,
Friendships born to live always.
Life's true wealth for us to hold,
Fleeting dreams and hopes that stay.

Alma mater, we sing your praises,
May our lives enrich your name.
Through the years we shall remember
The ideals that you proclaim.
Through the years we shall remember
The ideals that you proclaim.

The soul of Saint Francis echoed and re-echoed the praises of the Lord. As a wandering minstrel, a
TROUBADOUR of God, he sang
His love, His beauty, His goodness.
Alma Mater strives to instill in each student the Franciscan spirit of joy, simplicity, and charity that endeared Francis to all men. May his prayer of peace become ours.

Troubadour 64

Lord; make me an instrument of your peace.
where there is hatred, let me sow love;
where there is injury, pardon;
where there is doubt, faith;
where there is despair, hope;
where there is darkness, light;
and where there is sadness, joy.

O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console, to be understood as to understand,
to be loved as to love.

For it is in giving that we receive,
it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

Elizabeth, Diane and Denise,
Thank for all of your extra help, understanding, patience, tolerance, confusion, time, headaches, ulcers, and above all pictures! Thank again!

LISA + BRIE, HIYA IT'S BEEN A GREAT YEAR AS THE THREE MUSKETEERS! WE'VE HAD A LOT OF FUN TIMES, BUT I WISH THIS WAS NOT BRIE'S LAST YEAR! Even though she's gone we have to keep together! Just wanted to say that you've been a great strength to me and I'll never forget it! "A faithful friend is a sturdy shelter, she who finds one finds a treasure. A faithful friend is beyond price, no sum can balance her worth." (Sirach 6, 14-15)
Good luck in whatever you do and keep in touch!

Fondly recalling old memories at Senior Spirit Day are Melinda Gambito, Julie Kealey, Andrea Falvy, and Maria Chaure. The "Day" provided a time for seniors to relax and take time out from the "same old grind".

At Christmas Mass, Senior Jenny Berkley takes a pause after the first reading for reflection. A special offertory of toys and blankets was brought up and donated to the M.E.N.D. organization.

Proudly giving her "Daddy" a kiss at Father-Daughter night is Senior Annette Spataro. For many seniors it was a special night, since it was their last Father-Daughter night.

Providing the entertainment for the Father-Daughter dinner are Nena Carpenter, Tracey Allen, and Sarah Alcorn. These three Seniors received an overwhelming response, with their version of Michael Jackson.

Aside from being busy with student council, Kathy Keller & Nancy Sumner are often seen discussing weekend plans. The Junior officers all got along well, and worked efficiently.

So there it is. The story of the past year. Happy. Sad. Emotional. A year to remember. I knew it from the beginning. This would be a special place. And it is. The girls worked hard in all they did. A bond of lasting friendship was made through these past few months together. Closely knit. Together and apart. Growth. Change. Decisions. Challenges. Victory. Ability to reach beyond the impossible and achieve a unique experience. A special group of people. An unforgettable year.

Alverno. Troubadour. 1984. A special place. A special time. It's been real . . . and it's been fun. I'll miss you. Good luck . . . keep reaching for those stars. Here's looking at you kid!

While Ms. Linda Reffner, Dean of Discipline, is hidden in the office, Kate Coyer flaunts her free dress. "Free" dress often cost girls 1½ hours of their time in detention.

Here's Looking At The End

La Salle and Alverno have many social gatherings throughout the year. The different classes got together to organize the next activity.

At Senior Spirit Day Sr. Barbara Mullen shares an experience with a group of seniors. The day was a complete success, and allowed many friendships to grow and flourish.

Closing their eyes at the dreaded calories are Cathy Crews & Jan Garrigan digging into ice cream sundaes at Farrel's Nite.

With brooms in hand, Jose Sanchez and Jose Alcarez stand by, ready for their next "assignment". These two men were definitely an asset to Alverno, and were invaluable on campus for everyday survival.

A Very Special Thanx

From September to June, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week ... YEAR-BOOK! An experience that I'll never forget. It's meant hours after school typing and helping rephrase and correct copy until every red pen I owned ran dry, and it's been days of worry about deadlines. There were times when I felt like a doctor on call — ready to work the graveyard shift, holidays and weekends. Not only will I never forget room 107 (heaven knows we saw plenty of it), I'll never regret taking on the responsibility of Copy Editor.

Yearbook has been a struggle made worthwhile thanks to some very special people. My first thanks extends to the staff, who I endlessly hounded about deadlines. Thanks for not complaining too much when I asked you to rewrite, revise and redo. You always pulled through and did a super job!

Secondly, I could never forget Liz, Di, Brigid and Ms. B, who could always calm my nerves when I felt like I'd never make it. I don't know what I would have done without your hugs, smiles and encouragement.

Finally, a special thanks I give to my family, who on many occasions kept dinner warm for me, and supported all of my efforts. Thanks for being so understanding, for all of the help with captions and for supplying snacks for the midnight munchies of the editors. My family, like the others, has made yearbook fun. I thank you for your love, your friendship, and the opportunity you've given me to grow. Here's Looking At You Kids!

Lots of Love, ☺

Denise Jinker

What a year this has been. A whole new staff of seniors. You know what that means, a lot of drilling of rules and practice of mind. Though we spent weekends, weekdays, and holidays, it was ... interesting. I know everyone will faint when I make this revelation but through the headaches and complaining, I really had fun.

Maybe someday we'll look back at this and laugh, though it won't be soon. So many endless nights and grueling mornings are not easily forgotten. I think the most understanding and supportive people throughout this frantic commotion have been our wonderful parents. We must have postponed coming home so many times they probably thought we were having a good time.

A final thanks to some great people:

Ms. Bidwell — our loveable adviser who turned out to be a comic, who has a coffee addiction. What-a-combo.

Lizzy — my good friend and trusted counterpart, who had this delusion all year that she was Editor-in-Chief. This was Liz's final year on staff and not a minute to soon because she was about to snap. Maybe she should have been the coffee addict.

Denise — Editor of copy who has not and probably never will forgive me for talking her into yearbook.

To the staff — who without this year would not have been fun, unpredictable, or successful.

Thank you to all! ☺
Sincerely,

Diane D. Erb

This being my first year on yearbook, I came in knowing only a little more than the staff. Yet I found that even as I helped them, they were teaching me. I guess what I am trying to say is that I have learned a lot in Yearbook, both about yearbook itself and about people.

As one of the copy editors, I nit-picked at people's copy and topics, not to mention captions, but I hope that all my nit-picking helped. From Nancy's problem spelling soph"o"more, to Theresa's fascination with the color green, this staff has put together one heck-of-a yearbook.

I would especially like to thank my two "Ouches" for putting up with me when I got into one of my "yearbook moods". It really meant a lot to know that you two were there. Thanks also to all of my teachers for all of the support they gave me, even without knowing it, and also to everyone who helped me with quotes for my copy or gave me ideas for my captions.

I also want to thank the staff of the 1984 Troubadour, because without them, there wouldn't be a yearbook. And a special thanks to Biddy who put up with me and an all senior staff through everything and whose artwork has really made this book.

Thanx to Denise for helping me with copy checking and to Theresa for always being ahead of the deadlines. Thanx to Diane for getting layouts drawn with as little copy blocks as possible and to Angie for keeping all of the money straight.

A special thanx to Liz for everything (including yearbook). We finally worked together on yearbook, and look what we came up with. As far as I am concerned, this book was for you.

So, here's looking at Everyone! ☺

Bridgid McCar-

Pretending to be well behaved is the yearbook staff. They decided to cooperate with the photographer since they knew it was their last picture together.

Here's to You . . .

Well, this has been my third and final year on yearbook. It has truly been the best year ever. We have reached our goal, we have produced the best yearbook ever produced. First of all, I would like to thank the staff for putting up with me whenever you had to redraw your layouts. Thanks for always waiting for your pictures on deadline days!!! You are truly the best staff I've ever worked with. I love you all!!!

I don't think I would have made it without my executive staff. Angie Bilotti — Though we had some problems with the Ads, it turned out Wonderful!

Bridgid McCann — The Senior Index looks Perfect! And thanks for correcting all that copy.

Denise Tinker — Well kid, this is it! Thanks for rewriting all that copy, I can't believe how good it sounds. I'll never forget X-Mas vacation!

Diane Erb — Hun, I don't know what I would have done without you. You were always there to calm me down, and told me it was going to work! And I think WE DID IT!!!

My very special thanks go to:
Ms. Jean Bidwell — Thanks for believing in me! I really don't know what to say but, THANKS A MILLION. Mrs. Kathie Bailey — It's been three years and they've been great! Thanks for always being next to the phone and for coming when you weren't supposed to.

Mom & Dad — Thanks for all your support through all my years on yearbook. And thanks for understanding whenever I needed to be at school instead of being at home. I Love You Both!

Sr. Barbara — Thanks for all the encouragement and for being able to
